YALE SUFFERS NEW LOSS ON EVE OF GAME

By E. V. B. Parke.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 17.—Dick Baker, one of the three star halfbacks of the Yale eleven, who was relied upon to replace Daly or Field in to-morrow's game with Harvard, appeared to-day with a sprained ankle. His condition is so bad that if he plays at all in to-morrow's game he will be lame.

Yale is shy of star performers this year and has few capable back field "subs." The injury to Baker, who is the best of them—in fact a first string back—is a serious blow. He was hurt in practice.

Baker is the only man in whom the coaches have sufficient confidence to induce them to put him into the game without misgivings. If Daly or Field give way, Yale will be seriously handicapped. Captain Daly, however, said this afternoon that Baker would play at least a part of the game.

The Yale eleven changed its plans to-day and came here for a little daily work. Captain Daly decided that it would be unwise to take any chances on a rough field for signal practice, fearing that some player would get a sprained ankle.

He ordered the squad of sixteen men from the Highland Golf Club in Meriden in automobiles to this city. They arrived at noon and lunched at the regular training table, having sent word there early this morning to make plans for their arrival.

The team dressed at the gymnasium and went to Yale Field and after some strenuous practice quietly returned to Meriden, where the men will spend the night and return to this city early to-morrow morning.

All the players were in splendid trim.

The eve of the big battle of the year between the Crimson and the Blue gridiron warriors found the Harvard squad in high spirits at Elm Tree Inn., Farmington. Their last practice over a host of the Harvard graduates and undergraduates assembled here to help the heroes pass away the weary hours until the two big elevens of the East clash to-morrow on Yale Field in the supreme struggle.

Among the followers of the team here the greatest confidence reigns about the outcome of the game, and although the players are not saying much, the quiet determined manner in which they move about may easily be read as the spirit which says, "We realize we are going to have a hard battle, but we will win and win decisively."

Men Not Overconfident.

This is not a feeling of overconfidence, but purely a feeling of just confidence in their ability, merited by their performances this year, and no one can gainsay them on this.

One particularly cheering arrival today, and one which in a small degree showed the team just what Harvard men all over the country think of the Crimson machine this year, was that of "Ben" Dible, captain of the team at Harvard which defeated the Blue 17 to 0 in 1898.

His name is a household word in the family of every true Harvard man, and the fact that he this year made the trip all the way from California just to attend the game was enough to put any team in the best of spirits.

To say that he was greeted with open arms would be a pretty tame way of expressing things. His welcome was unusual.

Another arrival at the Crimson bivouac was "Mike" Farley, half back in 1898 and a member of the coaching staff this year, while "Dave" Campbell, Captain of the 1901 team which defeated Yale 22 to 0 was momentarily expected.

Hope for Roosevelt Visit.

It was hoped that Colonel Roosevelt would be here this evening to enjoy the entertainment given the players and their guests at the Country Club, and individually give a few words of advice about how to beat things to a frazzle.

Discussion has been rife among the players and coaches as to whether Vaughan, the crack Yale end, will really get in to the game to-morrow.

Practically all of them feel satisfied that he will, but on the other hand they are of the opinion that his long absence will detract much from his usefulness, and they think that Brook would play a better game.

To-day every man arose with the birds and ate a hearty breakfast, after which everyone took a long walk across country with Pooch Donovan, and when they returned they fooled around, some playing cards, while the most industriously inclined, among them Captain Withington, Wigglesworth, Bud Smith, Sam Felton, Harry Gardner, Frenchy Pierce and several others, took possession of the vacant lot across from the inn and got a little practice punting and passing the ball about.

The signal work to-day was light and lasted but three-quarters of an hour on the golf links behind the clubhouse. None of the new formations were tried out as the coaches devoted their time to giving last instructions to linemen and backs on different offensive and defensive formations.

In addition to this field work much time has been spent by the coaches with the men on all important blackboard talks every evening for an hour or more after dinner.

Since coming to the camp here the men have received much more instruction along these lines than at any time this year, Coach Haughton placing much stress on that species of training as a factor in developing a championship team.

WALKER ASKS ANOTHER VOTE

Speaker Joseph Walker is unwilling to accept his defeat in the Home Market on Wednesday as final, and has begun a canvass of the entire membership of the club in an effort to learn their attitude toward his resolution endorsing the tariff policy of President Taft. He has sent a return postal card to each member, printing the resolution in full, with the question, "Do you favor this resolution?" and an opportunity for an answer "yes" or "no."

On the other side of the card is this communication:

> Dear Sir—The resolution attached hereto was voted down at the annual meeting of the Home Market Club, held Wednesday, by a vote of 48 to 8. The club has a membership of nearly one thousand. I cannot believe that the club wishes to go on record as against the announced program of President Taft—a program which alone can unite Republicans and prevent Democratic tariff revision.
>
> In order to get a full and fair expression of opinion, I trust that every member of the club will vote informally on the question by marking a cross in one of the squares on the attached ballot and sending to me by return mail. Yours truly,
>
> JOSEPH WALKER.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. B. F. KEITH

The funeral of Mrs. Mary C. Keith, wife of B. F. Keith, was held from St. Mary's Church of the Assumption, Brookline, today. Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Charles A. Finnegan of Groton. The following clergy were seated in the sanctuary: Rev. James J. O'Brien of St. Catherine's Church, Somerville; Rev. J. J. Lyons of St. Raphael's Church, West Medford; Rev. Nicholas Walsh of Beverly Farms, Rev. M. T. McManus, pastor of St. Mary's Church of the Assumption, Brookline; Rev. Hugh Roe O'Donnell of Allston, Fathers Sheehan, Keenan and Coffey of St. Mary's and the Rev. Ambrose Dorr. The pall bearers were Dr. J. Foster Bush, William E. Collins, General W. B. Emery, Samuel K. Hodgdon, Phillip F. Nash and J. Dwight Prindle. Interment was at Holyhood Cemetery, with prayers by Rev. J. J. O'Brien.

WOMAN FUGITIVE ARRESTED HERE

Flora S. White was brought before United States Commissioner Hayes on a charge of being a fugitive from justice. The woman is wanted by the Federal authorities of Brandon, Vt., in connection with an alleged pension fraud. Her mother, Mrs. Rosie Aikens, was fined $100 at Brandon yesterday. Commissioner Hayes ordered the woman held in $500 on her personal recognizance, with the understanding that her attorney, Isaac Isaacs, will deliver her to the Brandon authorities.

APPEAL FINES IN SPIT WAR

Persons who don't read the papers, or who read the papers, but forget about the anti-spitting crusade, or who didn't suspect that policemen sometimes go about in citizen's clothes, continued to-day to pay $1, $2, $3 and $5 fines for spitting on sidewalks.

Most of them paid and departed. A few appealed, and will carry their cases to a Superior Court jury. Some had spent the night in police cells, unable to procure bail.

Arrested An Old Man.

Patrolman Fisher of the Joy street station arrested Joseph Behan, who is about sixty years old, in Cambridge street, and then made a plea for clemency when he appeared against his prisoner in court. The policeman told Judge Ely he thought Behan was poor and that it would be a hardship to fine him. He asked that the case be put on file and the court complied.

The following men paid a $2 fine imposed by Judge Ely in the Municipal Court: Palmer M. Ball, arrested in Court square by Patrolman Feeney; Addison M. Hamlet, arrested in Green street by Patrolman Senior; Frank A. Fuller, arrested in Washington street by Patrolman Leavitt; Maurice Nedele, arrested in Washington street by Patrolman Spinney; Joseph Safer, arrested on West Dedham street, by Patrolman Grant.

William M. Hill, arrested yesterday in Boylston street by Patrolman Peers, spent a night in custody and paid $2 fine to-day.

Simon Liseze, arrested in Dover street yesterday, furnished $25 bail to save himself from being locked up in the East Dedham street police station all night, and paid $2 fine in court to-day.

Some Arrests in Roxbury.

Here are three persons who were found guilty of spitting and fined by Judge Perrin in the West Roxbury District court:

Graston J. Corbett of No. 67 Walnut avenue, Norwood, arrested by Patrolman Harrington of the West Roxbury police station for spitting on the sidewalk at Ashland and Washington streets, Roslindale. Pleaded guilty and fined $3.

Thomas F. Fitzgerald of No. 59 Monadnock street, arrested by Sergeant Gilman and Patrolmen Egan and Keyes. Found guilty and fined $2.

Ralph H. Clogston of No. 8 Mt. Pleasant avenue, Roxbury, arrested by Patrolmen Egan and Keyes for spitting on the sidewalk at the Forest Hills terminal of the Elevated. Found guilty and paid a $2 fine.

Two in East Boston.

In East Boston to-day, Peter Grello of Bremen street and Charles Tewksbury of Chelsea were each arrested for spitting on a sidewalk, arraigned at once in the East Boston District Court and fined $3. They paid. In East Boston all arrests thus far for violations of the spitting law have been made during court hours so that prisoners would not have to face the alternatives of furnishing bail or sleeping over night in a police cell.

Crusade in South Boston.

In the South Boston District to-day these six men were charged with spitting on the sidewalk:

Charles Harroll, East Broadway, fined $3; appealed, and held in $100 for the Superior Court.

Joseph E. Barry, Dorchester street, fined $3; appealed, and held in $100 for the Superior Court.

Augustus J. Dwyer, Broadway; fined $3, paid.

James A. Kennedy, Dorchester street, spent the night in police cell; fined $3, paid.

Joseph J. Breadmore, Broadway; fined $5, paid.

Spitters Hard to Catch.

Police officials said to-day that the job of "getting" so many spitting offenders each day isn't easy. "But," as one patrolman put it, "the Commissioner has ordered us to catch so many every day, and I s'pose we've got to do it." In some divisions, uniformed patrolmen have been unable to detect a single violation of the spitting law. Anxious to obey Commissioner O'Meara's order to "get" some, the captains of some divisions sent out plain clothes men to catch the spitters.

A good deal of grumbling has been heard about the failure of the police to summon spitting offenders into court instead of locking them up over night if they are unable to furnish bail.

Concerning this phase of the crusade, Commissioner O'Meara said to-day: "Police officers are instructed to use the summons method in all cases where it is possible. It is the duty of a police officer to see that his prisoner appears in court, however, and he cannot give a loop-hole for escape just to be lenient. Too many offenders are apt to give false names to the police officers, and the summons method would become a joke."

Easy on Mr. O'Meara.

It was given out from Pemberton Square to-day that Commissioner O'Meara must not be given all the blame or credit for the anti-spitting crusade.

It was pointed out that Chairman McSweeney of the Consumptives' Hospital Trustees was the one who prodded the Police Commissioner into going after the spitting offenders. It was suggested that Mr. McSweeney's board might help to safeguard the public health by devising some way to let the general public know more about the existence of the anti-spitting law and the ease with which one gets caught if one breaks it.

GREAT COPPER POOL PLANNED

It is reported that a big consolidation of copper interests will soon be consummated, and that the new combine will be in form similar to the Steel Trust. It is said that an Amalgamated interest is having a strong hand in effecting the merger.

The Boston Financial News is authority for these statements and also says that John D. Ryan is the guiding spirit in consolidation proceedings, and that J. P. Morgan & Co. are in charge of the financial end. Companies in the various camps will be combined into one big operating concern.

The Anaconda will take in all the Butte properties, another company will take in the Arizona mines, a third those in Mexico and so on.

"The securities of the companies," it is stated, "taking in the mines of the various camps, will be held by one big holding company. This latter concern will be new and in all probability Amalgamated will be dissolved. It is not planned that the merger have complete control of the copper situation, and for this reason a large number of the smaller mining companies will be left as independents. Let it be understood, however, that as yet no definite agreement has been reached towards bringing about the merger."

BIG WOOL PLANT SEIZED IN SUIT

Special agents of the Department of Justice arrived here today with writs of attachments on the factory of Joseph Brooks & Co., at Canton Junction, which is alleged to have taken part in one of the most gigantic customs frauds ever perpetrated against the United States.

It is estimated that the Government has been cheated out of $15,000,000 in the past 5 years by importers and the Brooks Company in the first of this new series of cases to be taken up which are expected to reach five times as great a sum as the Sugar Trust underweighing frauds.

All the property of the Brooke Company in New York has been seized and agents are here to take the property of the company at Canton Junction. The Brooks Company is known as the Neponset Woolen Mills and about 100 hands are employed there. The property is estimated to be worth $100,000.

Allege False Invoices.

U. S. District Attorney Wise is seemingly determined to recover for the government all the money it is claimed to have been defrauded out of by means of alleged false invoices for importations made by Joseph Brooks & Co., manufacturers of woolens, worsteds and linings, of Bradford, England, New York and Boston. Assistant U. S. District Attorney Whitney, who has direct charge of the case, said:

"This is the biggest case of its kind the Government has ever had. The frauds involve several woolen firms in England. The total amount of the duties which the Government has lost through these importation frauds is much greater than in the sugar underweighing cases."

After the filing of preliminary papers in a suit to recover $290,000 damages because of the alleged undervaluation frauds, Assistant District Attorney Whitney obtained a writ of attachment upon which Marshal Henkel seized the entire stock of Brooks & Co.

Seize New York Property.

Further to protect the interest of the Government Mr. Whitney obtained twenty-six additional writs of attachment in New York which have been served by Marshal Henkel on certain banks and firms to prevent the collection of sums on deposit and accounts receivable.

Mr. Whitney said that the Brooks case was the initial one of a series of cases which the Government expects to conduct against other importers. These new cases, said the Federal officer, will involve claims against importers amounting to upward of $15,000,000.

Mr. Whitney stated that he had received information that Edward Jefferson, who had the power of attorney for Brooks & Co., is in Canada and intimated that steps will be taken to have him brought back here.

Factory Built in 1822.

Mr. Whitney stated that he had evidence in his possession which he said indicated that British woolen dealers were making a general distribution of false invoices to importers here.

The Brooke plant at Canton Junction includes a large four-story stone mill, built in 1822, and used at various times for the manufacture of woolen and cotton goods and later as a bleachery. A valuable water privilege goes with the plant.

The present interests secured control of the mill twelve years ago. The superintendent is John W. Wright, who is now absent, having recently sailed for England.

FOREMAN VIOLENTLY INSANE IN HOTEL

PLYMOUTH, Nov. 18.—Henry A. Ryan of Brockton, section foreman for the Southern Massachusetts Telephone Company, and who has been putting up wires in Kingston, became violently insane last night in the Hotel Priscilla, in North Plymouth, where he boards, and smashed windows and broke down a door. He is a big and powerful man and four policemen had a hard struggle before they overpowered him. He was brought to police headquarters here, where he is still under a physician's care.

ELKS HEAR ROURKE.

At an entertainment given in the Elks' Home, Somerset street, last night, Louis K. Rourke, superintendent of streets and formerly assistant engineer at the Panama Canal, gave the members of the lodge an interesting talk on "The Panama Canal." The Mozart Quartet sang several songs. Larry O'Connor was organist. Alfred de Oro, the well-known professional pool and billiard player, played an exhibition match with John L. Kelly.

GUILTY OF MURDER IN 1ST DEGREE

SALEM, Nov. 18.—Wasili Iwankowski and Andrei Ipsen, the Lynn yeggs, who have been on trial here for the murder of Patrolman James H. Carroll and Thomas Landregan, a shoe manufacturer of Lynn, were found guilty of murder in the first degree to-day. The jury brought in its verdict at 11:45 o'clock after having been out an hour. Chief Judge Aiken sentenced the two bandits to be electrocuted during the week of March 5, 1911.

BANDITS LAUGH AT DEATH SENTENCE.

Both prisoners heard the tidings with the greatest show of indifference. While Judge Aiken was pronouncing the sentence of death both laughed.

Ipsen exclaimed with a smile:

"Some of the witnesses have not told the truth."

Iwankowski, who is hardly more than a boy, laughed outright as he exclaimed in Russian:

"Let it go!"

Chief Justice Aiken, after delivering the sentence of death, complimented the attorneys for the two bandits for the able manner in which they have handled the case for the defence. The lawyers were: William P. Chapple of this city and J. P. S. Mahoney of Lawrence.

The two men have been on trial since Monday. Both have showed entire calmness when witnesses dramatically told of the murders of the Lynn policeman and shoe manufacturer on June 25, and identified the defendants as having been seen to shoot. The case was given to the jury at 10:15.

Shot Two Men for Robbery.

The crimes for which the two men will suffer the death penalty in the electric chair at the Charlestown State Prison the week of March 5, 1911, was one of the most cold blooded ever committed in this section. In broad daylight, in the very heart of Lynn's busy business section, the two men with another pal whom they identified only as "Joe," shot down Patrolman Carroll and Landregan, firing from the rear.

The three had been attracted by the appearance of a valise carried by Landregan, which the latter had brought from the bank, accompanied by the policeman. Each of the bandits had a large automatic magazine revolver, with several hundred rounds of cartridges.

After the shooting the trio escaped over the Rock Hill section of Lynn, still holding onto the valise, containing about $4,000 in bills and change. On their way they fired at several people and held up a Lynn girl in an attempt to steal her horse.

Blamed Their Dead Comrade.

The police were not long in spreading the alarm. The trio were finally rounded up near Lynn City Hospital. In the fusillade of shots between them and the officers, several patrolmen had narrow escapes. "Joe" was killed. Ipsen was shot through the head. Iwankowski escaped unhurt. Ipsen was believed to be dying. The bullet in his head was never removed.

Since their arrest both men have been extremely stoical. Both were born in Russia. Iwankowski was a clerk, who came to America a year ago and looked for a job. In his defence he said he met "Joe" and came with him and Ipsen to Lynn for work, after staying in Boston and Chelsea. Ipsen also claimed he had been misled by "Joe." Both prisoners tried to throw the blame for the shooting on the bandit who was killed.

LEM GOONG SUES HIS WHITE WIFE

Papers have been filed in the Superior Court by E. P. Damon, attorney for Lem Goong, a business man of Chinatown, who is suing his white wife, Helen E. M. Goong, for divorce, charging her with misconduct with Charlie Tong, a Providence Chinaman. Goong married Helen P. Murphy February 6, 1902, in Providence.

THE ABILITY TO PRODUCE

The ability of any newspaper to sell goods through its advertising columns—to produce satisfactory results in return for the money expended—is a peculiar quality. This quality comes from a combination of enormous circulation—broad, optimistic editorial policy—confidence on the part of the reader—and complete representation of all the Big and Little stores.

The AMERICAN offers just THAT combination to advertisers and readers every day and Sunday—the whole year 'round.

COMMONS STORMED BY WOMEN

LONDON, Nov. 18.—An army of 350 suffragettes lead by Emeline Pankhurst, made an attack on Parliament soon after it opened to-day. Twelve women and one man were arrested when the riot started. After the demonstration had apparently subsided another rush was made upon the building. The women formed a flying edge and some of the policemen were bowled over like nine pins. Three more women were arrested, fifteen in all.

Charging with amazonian fury against the double line of police about the Parliament building, they made half a dozen attempts to break through the cordon.

Refused an Audience.

Several attempts had been made to have Premier Asquith receive a deputation, but he pleaded he was too busy and refused. The women marched to Parliament cheering and crying "Votes for Women." Their demonstration was expected and scores of extra police were on duty.

David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, told the Commons that the government would announce its policy next week in regard to women's suffrage.

The legislative program for Parliament was announced in the House of Commons to-day when that body together with the Lords convened.

Premier Asquith announced that the upper house would be asked to pass or reject the veto bill without delay. In the event of rejection, he said, King George would be asked to dissolve Parliament on Nov. 28 and call general elections.

At the same time in the House of Lords, Lord Crewe, secretary for India, officially announced that King George had decided to dissolve the present Parliament.

It developed today that a movement is on foot to conform Parliament more closely with the United States Congress. The power of the Lords will doubtless be lessened, and provision will be made to place all members of Parliament upon salary next year.

"In State of Political War."

Lord Crew, in addressing the peers, said:

"King George, upon the advice of his ministers, has decided to dissolve Parliament with a view to calling general elections. On account of the conflicting political conditions, which exist at present, this seems the wisest course."

After announcing the legislative program, Premier Asquith addressed the Commons, declaring that England is now in a state of political war.

"As the result of the failure of the constitutional conferences, political war prevails," said he. "The Lords will be asked to pass or reject the Parliament bill without delay. In the event of rejection, King George will be asked to dissolve this body on November 28."

"It is useless to continue this farce longer," continued the Premier. "The Government is being made to look ridiculous in the eyes of foreign nations by our attempts to reform the House of Peers and, at the same time, to allow it to retain its veto power."

The Parliament bill is the official title of the veto resolution. It was reported that work will soon be started on the drafting of a government bill to place members of Parliament upon a salary.

Strong Talk by Balfour.

The speech of Ex-Premier Balfour last night before the Conservative associations, in which he urged a drastic curtailment of the powers of the House of Peers, was discussed by members today. Mr. Balfour declared that in his opinion the House of Commons should be the dominant factor in shaping England's legislation and that all dissensions should be submitted to the people for vote. The former premier scored the upper house, declaring that many of the members were unfit to hold office.

"Let only men who have rendered their country some service sit in the lawmaking body," said he.

ITALIAN LINE TO PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 18.—A direct line of steamships between this city and Italian ports, with the usual stop at the Azores, is probable. Manano Vervena, Italian consular agent at this port, who has just returned from Italy, brings news that the Italian government is considering such an enterprise. At a banquet to Signor Vervena, given by the business men and officials of the State at the Narragansett Hotel, the consular agent emphasized the need of such a line.

Governor Pothier indorsed the proposition. Mayor Fletcher said that the city would support such an enterprise and that new dock facilities would soon be at its disposal.

Two hundred men, including representatives of business, professional, church and officia' interests, were present.

FIREMEN TO ASK FOR HIGHER PAY

Boston firemen are planning to present a petition to Mayor Fitzgerald and the city government for an increase in their pay. Basing their argument on the steadily mounting higher cost of living they who urge that it is about time something was done to enable them to offset it.

They assert that while wages in almost every occupation have gone up, the pay of the uniformed fire fighting force of Boston has not been advanced for many years. They point out that New York and Chicago has raised the pay of their firemen and that these examples have been followed by many smaller cities.

Just when or how the request for higher pay will be made has not been determined.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS
Up to Midnight London Time

Pilgrim Society Host to Navy Men.

LONDON—The Pilgrims' society gave a luncheon to-day in honor of the officers of the third division of the American Atlantic fleet, now at Gravesend. Vice-Admiral Sir Edward Lambton presided and had Rear Admiral Joseph B. Murdock, commander of the visiting battleships, at his right. Both admirals made speeches.

Copenhagen Snubs Dr. Cook.

COPENHAGEN—Dr. Cook recently wrote to the university commission which examined his papers and to ex-Minister of Commerce Hansen offering to come here and meet his critics. The commission replied: "We have nothing to do with you." Mr. Hansen telegraphed: "Never come here unless you have something absolutely reliable to tell us. The feeling against you is more intense than ever after the evidence of your Eskimos."

Russia Gets Fugitive Monk.

CRACOW, Austrian Poland—Father Damazy Mazoch, a Pauline monk, has been delivered up to the Russian authorities. By his own confession he is the man who robbed the image of the Virgin in the famous monastery at Czenstochowa, Russian Poland, of millions in gems last year, slew his cousin, Vaclav Mazoch, a monk in the same institution, threw the body into the river and ran away with his murdered cousin's widow.

German Protestants Angry.

BERLIN—The Protestants and all the political progressive parties indignantly criticise the Kaiser's recent address to the Benedictines at the monastery at Beuren, which is interpreted as a bid for the support of the clerical party in combating Liberalism and Socialism. The press asks how far the connection between the monarchy and religious orders helped Portugal and how far it is likely to help Spain.

Forbes Party Delayed by Storm.

HONGKONG—A wireless telegram from the German steamer Kleist states that she will arrive from Singapore forty hours late. The cause of the delay is very heavy weather. Mrs. Forbes, mother of the Governor of the Philippines, and a party of American women are aboard the ship.

"Black Hand" Fugitive Trapped.

NAPLES—After a long international search a "Black Hand" agent named Chirico, who was traced here from New York, was arrested to-day. Carbiniers surrounded the house while the police entered and made the arrest. Chirico is charged with two murders in 1906.

Japan Orders a Dreadnought.

LONDON—Japan is going to increase her navy. An order for a huge armored cruiser of the Dreadnought type has been placed with an English shipbuilding firm. The war craft will be of the latest sea fighting type and will cost $1[illegible],500,000.

Balloon Given Up as Lost.

BERLIN—The balloon Saar, which ascended last Sunday with two military officers and a civilian on board and which has not been heard of since, has been given up as lost.

TOLSTOI LOW AND DELIRIOUS

ASTAPOVA, Russia, Nov 18.—Count Tolstoi passed a critical night and it was announced from his bedside by the attending physicians this morning that to-day would likely be the turning point in the case. He would either start upon the road to recovery or sink beyond all hope. The first bulletin from the bedside to-day stated that Tolstoi's temperature was 100.1, a slight drop from yesterday. The Count is delirious part of the time, and during periods of delirium mutters passages from his books.

His heart action alarms the doctors. Although ill and weak, Countess Tolstoi demands that she be allowed at her husband's bedside. The weather is intensely cold and the scene is a desolate one. The station master's house, in which Tolstoi lies, is a one-story log cabin. The visitors who have come here are unable to secure accommodations.

MITCHELL SURE OF SHORT TERM

The recount of votes in the Fourth Congressional District indicate that John J. Mitchell of Marlboro, Democrat, is elected for the short term and William H. Wilder of Gardner, Republican, for the long term. Contested Wilder votes in Fitchburg and elsewhere, if they are thrown out, will give Mitchell both terms. Only two wards in Waltham and the town of Weston remain to be heard from of the forty-four cities and towns of the district.

In the Fourteenth district, with only one city and nine towns to be heard from, Judge Robert O. Harris's plurality over his Democratic opponent, Thomas C. Thacher, now stands at 89, a reduction of 67 from the original 156.

Town Clerk Joseph S. Gates, Republican candidate for the Senate, has been elected on the recount by ten votes.

Returns from Marlboro, not completed until 1 o'clock this morning, showing a gain of eight votes for Wilder on both the short and long terms, make a total net gain for Mitchell on the short term of fifty-two votes, giving him a plurality of twenty-six over Wilder. The early returns gave Wilder a plurality of twenty-six votes. On the long term, Wilder held his early plurality in the district of 129 votes, while Mitchell, through varying votes, giving Wilder a net plurality on the recount of 134 votes.

Recounts were held as follows: Marlboro, where Mitchell gained eight votes on each term; Waltham, five wards, where Mitchell gained eleven votes on the long and nine votes on the short term; Lincoln, where Mitchell lost one vote on the short term; and at Ashby and Wayland, where there was no change. Only two wards in Waltham and the town of Weston remain to be heard from, of the forty-four cities and towns of the district.

In the Fourteenth District Mr. Thacher's gains have reduced Judge Harris's plurality to 89, against 176 in the early returns.

Recounts at Bridgewater, Pembroke and Easton made no changes in the standing. That at Bridgewater showed a gain for Mr. Thacher of one vote; Judge Harris gained one at Easton, and there was no change at Pembroke.

Brockton is among the places at which recounts will be made to-day.

SPOONING PARK LOST TO GIRLS

Walter Hunnewell has closed his Italian gardens, adjoining Lake Waban, to Wellesley students and their male friends. It is said to object to having every bench, sequestered nook, moonlit prospect and gravelled walk in the garden occupied by "spooning" couples.

Mr. Hunnewell has issued a stern, but courteous edict, placing the ban on the strolls of men and Wellesley maids in his gardens. The members of the Wellesley Student Government Association were impressed and each felt confident that others would observe the ban. Apparently there was mental reservation in the mind of many as to individual action.

Sunday night about a dozen couples, at different times, from different directions, unobtrusively wandered into the forbidden precincts. Each couple rather pitied all other couples for not being there. But then each couple, on seeking a favorite knoll or bench or terrace found another couple already ensconced. Worse than that, Mr. Hunnewell himself was out for a solitary ramble and could not find anything resembling solitude.

Now there has been posted in the college a second notice which Mr. Hunnewell thinks is incapable of misinterpretation. He strives in it to make his meaning clear, and the girls say he has succeeded. This is the notice:

"It should be distinctly understood that Mr. Hunnewell objects to all use of the gardens on Sunday or any other evening. If students persist in disregarding the desires of the owner of the estate in this matter, the result will be that the estate will be closed entirely to th use of the public."

Wellesley sighs and saunters along the shores of the lake, where the benches are few and occupied.

BAR POWDER PUFF.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Powder puffs must no longer be used in the barber shops of Montclair, N. J., according to an edict issued by Health Officer Chester H. Wells. Mr. Wells declares that the powder puff in barber shops is unsanitary, and hereafter the barbers will have to apply the talcum on some other way.

MRS. J. D. NICHOLS, WHO WENT ABROAD WITH ANCIENTS

MRS JOHN D NICHOLS

AUTO FACTORY FOR SPRINGFIELD

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 18.—It is rumored in business circles that a mammoth automobile factory is to be established in this city. Capitalists allied with the Standard Oil Company are said to be back of the new enterprise.

'KING GEORGE GOOD FELLOW'

"King George proved to be a 'good fellow,'" said Mrs. John D. Nichols, who has just returned to Boston after a trip to England with the delegation from the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company which presented the king a certificate of membership in the Ancients. In the party were Mrs. Nichols's husband, Captain Nichols, Lieutenant and Mrs. Francis H. Appleton and Colonel Sidney M. Hedges.

Mrs. Appleton and I did not see the king, but it wasn't any disappointment to me," said Mrs. Nichols. That was the least important part of the trip.

"The men had their audience at 11:30 Thursday, October 27. They were presented to King George at Marlboro House. The meeting was arranged by Lord Denbigh, of the Honorable Artillery Company of London. King George received them formally at first and the presentation of the certificate was very impressive, but after that he talked with them freely. He was a 'good fellow.'

Dined By Honorables.

"It had been planned for Mrs. Appleton and myself to go with the men when they had their audience with King George, but on the day we reached Liverpool, Prince Francis of Teck, Queen Mary's brother, died, and the royal family went into mourning for thirty days. Under the circumstances, it was quite a concession on the part of the king to receive the delegation, and it was only the fact that they had crossed the ocean, and that the time of their stay was limited, that induced him to do so.

"The day after the audience, we visited Prince Francis's grave at Windsor. He is buried under the floor of the Chapel. We saw there also, Albert Chapel, named after the present king's older brother who died. The floral decorations honoring Prince Francis were there, with an immense set piece from President Taft in a prominent position. Pieces from royalty all over Europe were there.

"Our stay in London was delightful. Soon after our arrival, Lord and Lady Denbigh called on us at the Hotel Cecil. Friday night, October 28, the Honorable Artillery Company of London gave us a dinner at their armory.' This is a magnificent place, and the company is equipped and ready to actually go to war at short notice. At the banquet, drapings of American flags were placed over our seats. Then the following Friday, a Masonic order connected with the artillery company, and different from anything we have here, banquetted us.

Missed Rocking Chairs.

"I was not especially disappointed not to see the King, but I was glad, of course, that the men got to see him, so that our trip was a success. My husband had seen him before in Canada.

"We did lots of sightseeing in the short time we were in London and in Paris. I was sorry not to have longer to stay, but it was rather cold. And you know they don't have any heat in their houses over there. And it certainly feels good to get into a rocking chair. I haven't seen a rocking chair since I left here. We visited the places of interest in London, the Tower, the Temple, St. Paul's, and the others. In Paris, the Eiffel Tower was the greatest thing I ever saw. I was almost afraid to go up, but Mr. Nichols said he was going anyway, so I went along. It's so tall you have to ride half way in one elevator and then transfer to another. We visited Stratford, and Chester and other places in England, but nothing looked any better than Massachusetts, especially after the rough weather we had on the trip back."

VERMONT WANTS STATE DISPENSARIES

MONTPELIER, Vt., Nov. 18.—Vermont will have a dispensary system similar to that of South Carolina, if a bill pending in the lower house of the Legislature becomes a law. The measure, which was introduced by Representative Burbank of Cabot, provides for the establishment of a State agency for the distribution of intoxicating liquors for medical, chemical and mechanical purposes.

BOND WILL HEAR LE BLANC CASE

Judge Daniel W. Bond of the Superior Court will preside at the trial of Hattie Le Blanc, charged with the murder of Clarence F. Glover, the Waltham laundryman. The trial will begin on November 28 at East Cambridge.

The appointment of Judge Bond by Chief Justice Aiken of the Supreme Court was announced to-day by District Attorney Higgins of Middlesex County. This is the first time in the history of the county that a single justice has been appointed to hear a murder case, usually two judges presiding. Judge Bond lives in Waltham, where the murder was committed.

CARNEGIE HAS PITY FOR SONS OF WEALTHY MEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Andrew Carnegie, speaking at the dinner of the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen of New York, said his heart went out in sympathy for the sons of millionaires. He said it was the son of poor parents who realized what a father and a mother's love was. The one who had to toil hard for what he got was the boy to be envied, he said. He declared that his greatest joy in giving was not the giving, but the opportunity it offered to induce and stimulate others to do their part of the work.

NEW HOME FOR GRAND OPERA

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—New York is to have a new home for Grand Opera. Realizing that thousands of opera lovers were being kept from hearing high-class music because most of the seats at the Metropolitan Opera House were in the hands of whole-season subscribers, the directors of the Metropolitan Opera Company have decided to build an altogether new Opera House on a different site.

This is to accommodate, according to the present tentative plans, about 6,000 persons as against the not quite 4,000 which the present structure at Fortieth street and Broadway holds.

The present Opera House cost $1,500,000 for the structure alone, and is worth at present, land and all, something like $7,000,000.

MORE WORKMEN QUIT ON CANAL

PANAMA, Nov. 18.—The first serious check to the work on the Panama Canal came today when more workmen joined the 145 boilermakers who quit yesterday. Five days' notice was given by the men. The boilermakers are demanding increased pay in lieu of six weeks leave of absence yearly.

President Taft, who is speeding toward Cuba today, told them that they were getting higher salaries now than their fellow workmen in the United States. The mechanics threaten to strike unless they get higher pay after January 1.

MAYOR'S BAN ON BIG HATS

One of the heralded constructive features of the present municipal administration as outlined by Mayor Fitzgerald was put into effect in Boston today. It was not the beginning of the direct railroad line to Buffalo, nor the tearing down of the Elevated railroad, nor the improvement of Boston harbor so that it would attract the sailing fleets of the world, but—

It was an edict that women at Symphony Hall concerts shall not wear hats during a performance.

There is an ordinance in Boston that forbids women wearing hats at theatrical performances. The ordinance is enforced in all of the theatres, but it seems that the concert goers at Symphony Hall never took it very seriously, arguing that people go there to hear instead of see and that a woman's hat, as ordinarily constructed up to the time of the invasion of the bucket variety, did not interfere with hearing.

Here is Mayor Fitzgerald's letter to the management of Symphony Hall:

Mr. Louis H. Mudgett, Symphony Hall:

Dear Sir—I wish to call your attention to Chapter 3, Revised Regulations of August 2, 1906, relating to the covering of the head in places of public amusement.

I have received many complaints of the constant violation of this law in Symphony Hall at the rehearsals and concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. I am informed that despite the printing of the regulation on the programme and the posting of cards in the hall, many, if not most of the ladies who patronize these concerts, ignore the law to the extreme discomfort of [illegible].

These complaints have of late become more numerous and more emphatic. I have delayed as long as possible taking the matter up, not wishing to embarrass the Boston Symphony Orchestra, which is one of the chief glories of the city, and hoping you would find some means to abolish the nuisance without resorting to extreme measures.

Urges Co-operation.

It would be a calamity if it should be found necessary to put an end to these concerts for such a trivial cause, yet the law is very clear, and distasteful as it is to me, I may be compelled to enforce it even to the point of revoking the license of Symphony Hall.

For twenty-nine years these concerts have been a centre of the social and aesthetic life of Boston. This city has one of the finest orchestras in the world, and for this reason, if for no other, occupies a unique place in the world of music. I am confident that the wearing of hats at these concerts is simply the result of thoughtlessness on the part of the ladies, and when the matter is presented to them in a proper light, so that they will understand that a continuance of the custom must mean an end of the concerts, their loyalty to the orchestra and their respect for the law itself will bring about the reform asked for.

I beg to enclose a marked copy of the license under which Symphony Hall is operated.

Yours very truly,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD,
Mayor.

Law to Be Enforced.

"There should be no distinction between the Symphony audiences and the audiences at other places of entertainment in the city," said Mayor Fitzgerald. "The ordinance is clear, and if it is enforced in the cheaper concert halls and theatres certainly people of the class that attend the symphony concerts should be ready to obey the law.

"The matter was brought to my attention by letters of complaint received at my office. I at once conferred with Manager Ellis of Symphony Hall. He feared that it would be a very difficult undertaking to effect the change, and put an end to the old custom at the concerts.

"I told him, however, that the law should be enforced henceforth as it stands. It appears that people of such a high class should be ready to set an example by obeying the law, even though they may not approve of it, nor see its justice."

FOOTBALL PLAYERS PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Because Patrolman James E. Collins of Station 16, Boston, advised his two sons and twelve other members of the Hilland football team of Roslindale, to plead not guilty to the charge of creating a disturbance on an electric car following a game November 12, before Judge Grover in Dedham District Court today, James Lavers, chief of the Norwood police, became excited and an exciting verbal combat with Collins followed in the court-house. Patrolman Collins gathered his husky flock together and guided them quietly to Roslindale. Each of the fourteen boys was held in $100 for trial November 28.

FIRST SESSION OF NEWSBOYS' COURT

The Newsboys' Court, the first of its kind in the country, will hold its first session to-night at the Boston Newsboys' Club, No. 277 Tremont street, with the three schoolboy judges and Justices Alexander L. STOPS ITCHING AT ONCE

A chemist recently discovered that an extract from a particular tree possesses such soothing and curative properties that when applied to eczema and similar diseases it stopped the itching at once. Sufferers who use it are amazed at the quickness of the relief which follows its use. It heals the skin and removes all traces of the disease. The name of this new remedy is Cadum. It is sold by all druggists at 10c and 25c a box. Cadum is equally good for sores, scaly skin, chafings, psoriasis, pimples, itching piles, etc. People who have been afflicted for years with skin troubles and who have tried everything without being relieved, should take fresh courage because this new remedy is different from anything else.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT TERRIER SHOW

The second day of the Boston Terrier Club's show at Horticultural Hall opened to-day with a large attendance and the show bids fair to eclipse any previous show in the history of the club, regarding attendance. The banquet brought out society people, including many from New York and Philadelphia, who are members of the Boston Club.

Boylston Prince III., owned by Samuel R. Foster of Philadelphia, walked off with the biggest honors of the day at the Boston terrier show to-day; that of "winners for dogs." This youngster, eight months old, went up through a good field of puppies, into the open classes and then on for his championship points defeating a good field over which Judge Riley pondered for quite a while. Mrs. F. A. Dallen's Sport took the reserve winners.

Thus far Henry D. Riley of Philadelphia, who is judging has given good satisfaction but has furnished one surprise that is the talk of the show.

Demon Out of Running.

Demon, owned by by Franz J. Heilborn of Plainville, the sensational winner of the New York show a month or two ago and at the same show last year was given a fourth and second by Mr. Riley; putting him out of the running for winners.

The dogs that have caused considerable talk at various shows the past Summer: Trimount Countess, owned by Mrs. V. Clemence Harvey of New York; Whisper by the Way, owned by Julian C. Platz of New York and Boylston Prince III., owned by Samuel R. Foster of Philadelphia, proved great winners. Whisper and Trimount Countess meet Jewel, owned by Thomas Kelley of Jamaica Plain, a bitch that has won at Philadelphia and other big shows. For the big honors of the show for bitches, these three, with possibly Champion Yankee Doodle Pride, a double champion at that, will meet in the show ring and it means a good, keen contest, as every one of them are show dogs.

Day's Winners Named.

The final winners of the day:: Limit dogs (12 and under 17 pounds) first, Boylston Prince III, S. R. Foster; second, Cupids Surprise, Peter C. Grieg; third, Doherty's Toby, M. F. Doherty; reserve, Cushing's Peter, P. J. Cushing.

Open dogs (12 and under 17 pounds) first, Boylston Prince III., S. R. Foster; second, Cupids Surprise, Peter C. Grieg; third, Gaudette's Little Boy, Winsome Kennels; fourth, Doherty's Toby, M. F. Doherty; reserve, Iokalon II., James J. Dennis.

Novice dogs (17 and under 22 pounds) first, Billy Peach, John C. Sullivan; second, Butler's Locanda, William Butler; third, The Doc, Dr. A. C. Miller; fourth, Kermit, Ladd J. Janssens; reserve, Buster Mack, Prof. William O'Connor.

Limit dogs (17 and under 22 pounds) first, Conundrum, Tom Benson; second, Boston Star, T. A. Noffer; third, Crane's Teddy, L. O. Crane; fourth, The Demon, F. J. Heilborn.

Open dogs (17 and under 22 pounds) first, Boston Star, T. A. Noffer; second, The Demon, F. J. Heilborn; third, Revilo Kernalt, M. A. Knipe; fourth, Crane's Teddy, L. O. Crane; reserve, Sudbury Nemo, J. Magann.

Novice dogs (22 and under 28 pounds) first, Winsome Wizard, Harry F. Allen; second, Alabama Dix, E. J. Nixon; third, Sentinel Boy, L. J Fallon; fourth, Keh, Walter E. Stone; reserve, The Cub, George W. Peck.

TOOK FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE FOR COLD

This Little Chicago Girl Says, "It Made Me Feel Fine."

Little Elizabeth Nelson, who lives at 3836 N. Whipple street, Chicago Ill., in telling of her experience with Father John's Medicine, says: "I took the medicine for a bad cold. It made me feel fine."

The reason why Father John's Medicine cures colds is because it gives strength to the weakened system, which enables it to resist the attacks of disease. Thus the natural health and strength is brought back. Father John's Medicine is all pure nourishment—free from alcohol and dangerous weakening stimulants or narcotics. A physician's prescription which has been in use 50 years.

CLIP COUPONS FOR DICTIONARY

How many times a day does it happen that you use a word that you are not sure as to its exact meaning or its proper pronounciation? If you had a dictionary you would look it up. Then you would know and gradually you would be increasing your vocabulary and getting a better education.

Webster's dictionary is a standard. The AMERICAN offers it in three bindings for thirty-five, sixty-five and ninety-five cents, together with seven coupons clipped from the Daily and Sunday issues of the AMERICAN.

The dictionary offered has everything in it that the more bulky editions have. It is handy and any of the three bindings are durable. It contains a wealth of common information that you need. If you had one you would be consulting it daily. Save your coupons now while the opportunity is here.

HOUGHTON & DUTTON EMPLOYES DANCE

Serpentine and cyclone dances were the features of the annual shirtwaist and Fall dancing party of the Houghton & Dutton Company Mutual Relief Association, which took place in Copley Hall. Electrical effects, obtained through courtesy of the firm, were used to advantage in these novel dances. Over 1,000 were present. Among the invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dutton, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McGregor, Harry Dutton, Mr. and Mrs. George Dutton and acting-Mayor Walter Ballantyne. E. P. Davis was floor director, assisted by E. P. Morse and S. H. Thurber.

TWO INJURED AT HORSE SHOW

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The society throng that crowded Madison Square Garden for the national horse show was thrilled twice to-day when two riders were thrown and injured. Jack Hamilton, riding No Trumps, was thrown in the event for light weight qualified hunters when his mount stumbled over the "Pig Pen." The rider had a narrow escape from death. Thomas Tipper, a saddle boy for Edwin H. Weatherbee, was thrown from the big gray gelding David Gray while jumping in the contest for hunters. The boy was picked up unconscious.

That each pair must weigh more than 3,500 pounds was the condition of the opening class for heavy draft horses shown to wagon. There were only two entries. Morris & Co., winnin gthe blue ribbon with Walter and Hector, the bay geldings.

harness class for pairs of ponies other than Shetlands, not exceeding 13 hands was won by the Hackney ponies, Lady Eccles and Dainty Eccles, exhibited by the Belton Farms of Mrs. H. S. Bowen of Greenwich, Ct.

THAW'S ASYLUM PETITION FAILS

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Nov. 18.—County Judge Hasbrouck to-day refused to sign an order for examination of inmates of the Matteawan State Hospital, in a suit brought by Harry K. Thaw to show that William McDonald, an ex-pugilist who is an attendant at the hospital, is cruel to patients. Thaw's ultimate desire is to cause McDonald's arrest, but the court insists that the papers in the case be strictly in accordance with the law before he will order the patients' examination. McDonald, who once fought Sam Langford, makes the counter charge that Thaw cursed and beat his fellow patients.

COMMITTEE OF 9 GETS BUSY

The Committee of Nine of the Citizens' Municipal League informally organized this afternoon.

With Bernard J. Rothwell, president of the Chamber of Commerce, as chairman, the committee met at one of the local hotels and discussed the selection of three candidates for the school committee. It candidates for the City Council and two candidates for the school committee. It is expected that they will be able to announce their selection at a meeting of the League to be called early next week by Richard Olner, chairman of the organization.

The leading candidates for the city council, who are being considered for endorsement are: Associate Justice Frank Leveroni of the Juvenile Court, John A. Coulthurst, Councilor Daniel J. McDonald, Logan McLean of East Boston, Parker D. Morris of Ward 20, Councilor Frederick J. Brand and Frank A. Goodwin of Ward 1.

The selection of the Committee of Nine will be presented to the main body of the Citizens Municipal League for ratification or amendment.

For the school committee Michael H. Corcoran, Jr., has been tentatively agreed upon. He will also be supported by the Public School Association. His running mate on the ticket has not at yet been selected.

NEW HAVEN CLERKS ASK WAGE INCREASE

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 18.—The adjustment board of the railway clerks employed on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad system will hold a conference with the officials of the road here on Monday, the 21st, when a wage increase and a general betterment of working conditions will be asked for. The board represents approximately 3,000 clerks.

DRAGNET FOR TRUNK SLAYER

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—A police dragnet was thrown out to-day in the attempt to find a waiter known as W. Lewis and thus clear up an eight-year murder mystery which has the authorities baffled. By the merest chance an old trunk which had been stored away for years in the basement of the apartment house at No. 450 West Fifty-Fourth street was opened by Philip Meagher, an occupant of the house, and before his startled gaze the body of a human being was exposed.

The police declared that the body was that of a woman, but Coroner Winterbottom ordered an autopsy to-day to ascertain definitely. The trunk was lined with zinc and this was sealed with plaster of paris to prevent the order of decaying flesh from escaping. There were a couple of old newspapers bearing dates of April 17 and 30, 1902.

Eight years ago Lewis boarded in the Meagher home. At that time they resided in another part of the city. Lewis left his room owing rent so the Meagher family seized his trunk and held it as surety.

They did not open the trunk, thinking that Lewis would return for it. In the course of time it was forgotten. When the family moved to Fifty-seventh street the trunk was placed in the basement where it collected dust and cobwebs.

The janitor of the house complained of the room which the trunk took up, so Mr. Meagher decided to open it to see if he could find the names of some of Lewis relatives.

The police learned to-day that Lewis was very friendly with a woman named Winton, and that she disappeared about the same time that Lewis dropped out of sight.

Does this man look as if he were dying from heartburn and fermentation caused by indigestion—and had no appetite? Read what he says about it in his own words:

The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Gentlemen: I used to be troubled with a weak heart, also indigestion, fermentation of food, heartburn, loss of appetite—most everything I ate distressed me. For a short time I obtained relief from doctors and from the medicines my friends advised me to take; then I would become just as sick again, until a doctor prescribed Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I began to take your medicine and it did me a world of good. When I began taking your Malt Whiskey I weighed 150 lbs., now I weigh 178 lbs., and can eat anything without being distressed. I have sent many bottles to friends of mine in the country who were troubled with indigestion and who have been cured by its use. It has been several years since I found relief myself, but I always keep Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in my family for medicinal use.

MEAT OR TURKEY DRESSING (equally good when baked and served separately). Toast 7 or 8 slices of white bread. Place in a deep dish, adding butter size of an egg. Cover with hot water to melt butter and make bread right consistency. Add an even tablespoon of Bell's Seasoning, an even teaspoon salt, and a slices of salt pork, fried to a crisp and chopped fine. When well mixed, stir in 1 or 2 raw eggs.

NOTE.—The above dressings may be improved, to some tastes, by adding chopped nuts of any kind, chestnuts, peanuts, walnuts, etc. Oysters also give a fine flavor.

Remember, a 10c. can of Bell's Seasoning is sufficient to flavor the dressing for 100 lbs. of meat or poultry, and the 25c. can 300 lbs.

For Delicious Sausages, flavor with Bell's Sausage Seasoning.

25c and 50c. Cans; 6, 12 and 25 lb. Boxes; 50, 75 and 100 lb. Drums.

TURKEYS BY CARLOADS FLOCKING TO BOSTON

Messrs. Vt. Turk and R. I. Turk arrived in Boston to-day for a Thanksgiving visit.

Which is to say that the first big shipments of Rhode Island and Vermont turkey birds for Thanksgiving consumption were received at the Boston markets. During the next few days they will keep coming in carload lots.

There will be a plentiful supply. So the favorite Thanksgiving meat will cost from 28 to 32 cents a pound. Ten years ago turkey ranged from 20 to 25 cents.

An earnest statistician has figured that Greater Boston will consume 4,500,000 pounds of dark and light turkey meat this Thanksgiving.

Western Birds in Market.

The few turkeys in the market up to today are Western birds, not to be compared with the prime "Turks" from Vermont and Little Rhody. The real Thanksgiving rush at the markets does not come until the New England product arrives on the chopping block.

In case you prefer chicken for Thanksgiving, you can buy good fowl for 18 to 20 cents a pound. Roasting chickens or broilers come from 20 to 25 cents. These prices are expected to hold throughout Thanksgiving.

On other foodstuffs, with a few exceptions, no great decrease has been noted in the Boston retail markets with the last few days. Rump steak, however, has dropped two cents within a short time; round steak, according to some has dropped a few cents, but others say it has reached its topnotch price in the local market. Lamb chops are down to a price 3 cents less than the lowest figure quoted on Monday. Pork loins have fallen 2 cents per pound within the last few days. Generally, local marketmen to-day reported that prices were about the same.

ALLEGED BIGAMIST CAUGHT BY PRIESTS

C. H. McLeod, who is wanted by the Boston police on a charge of bigamy, is under arrest at Colorado Springs, Col. It is alleged by the police that McLeod was married on August 7, 1902, to Jennie McLeod of Portland and that on September 28, 1910, he was married in this city to Bessie E. McKeon, who ran a lodging house at No. 42 West Cedar street, West End, and whom he is alleged to have induced to sell her interests for $900 and start for California. The arrest of McLeod was brought about by the Rev. Father McCormack of St. Joseph's Church on Chambers street, who performed the ceremony in this city and upon learning of the facts wired to Father Rober in Colorado Springs. Father Rober turned McLeod over to the police. He will be brought back here next week for trial.

Odd Items

Shower of Gold in Street.

PITTSBURG.—The bottom fell out of a coin bag while it was being carried by two national bank employees past one of the busiest corners in town this noon and the shower of gold coin almost caused a riot. The entire $20,000 rolled and slipped in the slush and there was a great scrambling by the dismayed bank servants to gather it up and place it in another bag. Every coin was recovered.

Quit Wedding Feast to Wed.

BALTIMORE.—While J. Walbach Edelen and his bride, who was Miss Agnes Boggs, were making merry at their wedding breakfast, the brother of the bridegroom, James E. Edelen, tapped Margaret Mudd on the arm and whispered "Come along, quick." In a few minutes more they were married at St. Patrick's rectory.

Chicken Shower for Pastor.

WINSTED, Conn.—Seventy members of the Torringford Congregational Church tendered the new pastor, the Rev. W. E. Paige, a surprise party, when they presented to the pastor thirty-one chickens, which were intended, according to the speech of presentation, to establish Mr. Paige in the poultry business.

Water Wagon for Old Boys

WASHINGTON.—The Oldest Inhabitants' Association of Washington has joined the temperance ranks. By an almost unanimous vote the association decided that wines, beers and liquors will be eliminated from the fortieth annual banquet Dec. 7.

Roses and Mosquitoes in Jersey.

NEW YORK.—Two rose bushes in front of No. 39 West Thirty-fifth street, Bayonne, which bore pink roses in August, blossomed to-day in deep red roses. A flock of mosquitoes buzzed about the blossoms.

GOVERNMENT COOK BOOK BLAMED FOR MEAT PRICE DROP

Manchester, N. H., offers an explanation for the drop in higher-grade cuts of meat and the boost in the cheaper cuts, the latter being especially felt there. The explanation is that the beef trust has caused the changes, because the government cook book showing how the cheaper cuts of meat could be made palatable and nourishment caused people to boycott the dearer grades of meat for the cheaper.

PREDICTS BIG AUTO SEASON

By J. C. KERRISON.

Percy Owen, Eastern Sales Manager of the Chalmers Company, has been spending a few days in this city as the guest of E. A. Gilmore of the Whelen Gilmore Company, leaving yesterday to make a short visit to several other dealers on his return trip to Detroit. Mr. Owen is well satisfied with the general outlook, predicting that the coming season will be one of the most successful in the history of the industry. He says there are signs of advancement on every hand, and he is confident that the success of the motor car has not yet reached its height. In speaking of Boston and Boston affairs, Mr. Owen expressed considerable surprise at the comparatively small number of closed cars that are seen here. He says in all other matters, save the closed car, Boston is among the leaders, and he is decidedly surprised that Bostonians have been so slow to recognize the real merit and comfort of closed cars, for calling, shopping and theatre purposes.

* * *

Archie Hughes of the Foss-Hughes Company of Philadelphia spent yesterday in this city, being entertained by Harry W. Knights and J. W. Maguire. Mr. Hughes, while here, contributed to the good cause by purchasing a ticket to the Police Ball.

* * *

Mr. Fred Walsh has severed his connection with the Buick Company in order to accept a position as New England wholesale representative of the Oakland, with headquarters in Boston.

* * *

The racing drivers at Savannah made use of complete face masks to protect themselves while driving. The masks are like those used by some women automobilists and cover the face completely. According to medical opinion, as for instance set forth by Dr. D. Bryson Delavan recently, it is more desirable that the mouth and nose should be protected than other parts. The rush of air coming against the open mouth is apt to have a deleterious effect on the upper air passages.

It is much more comfortable too for the driver to have his face covered up, so that not only is the strain on the eyes relieved, but there is no pelting of small grains of road material against the face. The road driver going at top speed is apt to be irritated by little things. The nervous tension is such that the driver is worried over matters that ordinarily wouldn't bother him.

Therefore the face mask is not only hygenic, but more comfortable. It converts the driver into an odd looking being truly. Time was when the goggles were considered distinctly racy, without extra adornment, if the face mask can be considered adornment.

WESTERN STATES AFTER IMMIGRANTS

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 18.—Invitations to Governors and Immigration commissioners in the Central West and Southwest States to attend a conference in St. Louis to take steps to obtain national legislation which will send desirable immigrants from the congested Eastern cities to the undeveloped country in the Middle West will be sent out soon by Governor Hadley. The action will be taken at the request of John H. Curran, chief commissioner of the Missouri State Board of Immigration. The meeting probably will be held in December.

BOYLE WILL MAKE 16TH RUN FOR MAYOR

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 18.—Mayor Patrick J. Boyle has taken out nomination papers and will run as the Democratic candidate for Mayor for the sixteenth time. In all the previous times that he has run he has been beaten only twice, once by F. P. Garrettson and once by Robert C. Cottrell.

It has looked as though no one would run against him this year, but within a day or two the names of former City Solicitor Clark Burdick and F. B. Coggeshall, a merchant, have been mentioned and one or the other may decide to run.

BOSTON-1915 RAPS L ROAD

At the civic rallies of the Boston-1915 Movement there was sharply criticism of the management of the L road.

At the Dorchester High School, Matthew Cummings spoke on the needs of rapid transit in Dorchester. He said: "Transit facilities have not improved in Dorchester to any appreciable extent during the past ten years. It takes fifty minutes to travel from Dorchester Lower Mills, Neponset or Mattapan to the North station. If the time waiting for cars is counted, it means that an hour's time is used in going to the city and another hour in returning.

"Such traveling facilities are a great impediment to the growth of the section. We want to create a public opinion that will force the Legislature to authorize the transit commission to build a subway to Park street along Dorchester avenue with the least possible delay."

Mr. Cummings criticised the law which compelled Boston to pay 36 per cent. of the cost of maintenance of State roads and 65 per cent. of the cost of Metropolitan parks, boulevards and sewers.

At the rally in the Clapp Memorial Institute, East Weymouth, H. R. Drinkwater presided, and the speakers were George E. Johnson and J. L. Sewall. Clifford M. Brewer presided over the rally at the Medford High School, where the speakers were Louis P. Nash and Miss M. Josephine Bleakie. H. W. Kimball spoke at a noon rally at the Walker Pratt shops in Watertown.

HOLD CRAFFEY IN DEATH CASE

Charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Robert Rome, president of the Lathers' Union, during a quarrel after a meeting of the union in Wells Memorial building, George Craffey of No. 108 Cedar street, Roxbury, is under $800 bonds awaiting a hearing before Judge Ely in the Municipal Court on November 23.

Craffey, who is a contractor, was arrested at his home. The police allege that during the fight he struck Rome a blow on the jaw and the latter fell to the floor, striking his head. Rome died in the ambulance while being taken to the City Hospital.

A superficial examination made by surgeons revealed that death was due to a fractured skull.

The circumstances leading up to the death of Rome are unexplained. While the police allege Rome fell to the floor as the result of a blow delivered by Craffey, some of the witnesses declare that Rome was pushed or fell from a bench, and that he struck his head while falling.

E. N. Kelly, business agent, and M. D. Conner, treasurer of the Lathers' Union, declare that there was no quarrel between Rome and Craffey at the union meeting, Craffey being a contractor and therefore not eligible to attend the union meetings. Their joint statement follows:

"Mr. Craffey is not a member of our union, although always looked upon as a friend of the organization as he runs his business on a strictly union basis. And, while we did not see the blow struck which is said to have caused President Rome's death, the quarrel was not a result of any disagreement in the union meeting, Mr. Craffey not being present at that time.

"It has been customary for employers wishing to hire union men to come to our hall meeting nights, after adjournment, and pick their men. This, no doubt, accounts for Mr. Craffey's presence."

SAD GOOD-BY TO HOSPITAL HEAD

Carney Hospital was a place of sorrow this forenoon when the beloved Sister Gonzaga, who for twenty-eight years has been at the head of the institution, took final leave of the attendants, the Sisters of the hospital and the members of the staff with whom she has worked so long, and began her journey to Baltimore, where she is to take charge of St. Agnes's Hospital.

The leave taking at the South Boston hospital began at 5:30 a. m., at which hour Fr. P. J. Lyons, the hospital chaplain, said mass in the convent chapel. During the mass everybody in the chapel was in tears as all remembered it would be the last mass said there with Sister Gonzaga kneeling in her choir stall.

After the mass, there was little time or inclination for farewell ceremonies. Simple and loving good-bys were spoken and then Sister Gonzaga and a group of nuns took seats in a special parlor car which had been placed at their disposal by Daniel L. Prendergast of the Boston Elevated company, and the journey was made quickly to South station.

There rode in the special car to the station ten sisters of the Carney Hospital and one sister from each of the Catholic houses in Boston.

Some hundred or more of the laity were at the hospital to say good-by to Sister Gonzaga, including members of the Carney Hospital Ladies' Aid Society and the Carney Hospital Sewing Guild.

There was also present, and she was the last to say farewell, the sister of Sister Gonzaga, who is Sister Francis, and who last October celebrated her fiftieth anniversary as a Sister of Charity.

Five nuns went on the train with Sister Gonzaga. They will accompany her to Philadelphia, where they are going to take a special course in one of the hospitals of that city.

Among those who joined in the farewell to Sister Gonzaga were the following members of the Carney medical staff: Dr. William H. Devine, Dr. Michael Fox, Dr. John J. Henty, Dr. W. F. Murray, Dr. W. Russell McCausland and Dr. J. [illegible] Bottomley.

Matthew Mullen and Joseph M. [illegible] were also in the chapel.

The arrangements for the special car which took Sister Gonzaga and her accompanying party of nuns to South station were under the personal direction of Mr. Prendergast, who is a director of said [illegible] road.

Important Exclusive News from a Sensational Morning Newspaper

Our esteemed contemporary, the Boston Journal, prints an exclusive and most important piece of news to-day. It is so sensational that the Journal uses it in a seven-column headline across the top of its first page. Here it is:

"THE BOSTON JOURNAL BELIEVES THIN ICE DROWNINGS LARGELY PREVENTABLE."

There's a thriller for you! Doesn't that dwarf every other issue before the country to-day?

And the way to prevent is first to abolish thin ice altogether—have none of it—and, second, chloroform all would-be skaters!

HIGGINS FIGHTS JORDAN RETRIAL

District Attorney John J. Higgins to-day opposed the motion for a new trial for Chester O. Jordan, sought by Jordan's lawyers from the full bench of the Supreme Court on the ground that one of the jurors, Willis A. White, was insane during and after the trial which resulted in the conviction of Jordan for the murder of his wife.

The hearing commenced yesterday. General Charles W. Bartlett of counsel for Jordan argued the motion for a new trial. Mr. Higgins argued for about an hour. He declared that Jordan's trial was a fair one.

Juror White, who lived in Maynard, went insane shortly after the trial. He is now an inmate of the Worcester Insane Asylum. The Jordan lawyers claim that the insanity dated back to a time during the trial.

BRAMAN DIVORCE SUIT WITHDRAWN

The divorce suit brought by Hammond Braman, naming a Winthrop man as the cause of domestic trouble, has been withdrawn in the Suffolk County Court, the attorney of record being John W. Blanchard. The divorce case was begun a few months ago after a married life of two years. The wife, who was Rose O'Neill, was an actress with whom Braman eloped on a dare and married in Connecticut in 1908. The agreement of dismissal of this case was filed November 10 and it is understood that the wife, who lives on Linden street, Malden, and the husband, whose recent residence has been on Massachusetts avenue, Boston, may be reconciled.

WIFE GONE; ASKS HELP IN SEARCH

Abraham Rubin of No. [illegible] [illegible] street has appealed for aid in his search for his wife, Sarah, who has been missing since last Sunday. She has been sick for some time. Her brother had an ailment which necessitated the amputation of both legs. Mrs. Rubin was afflicted with a similar disease and she worried so much about it, according to her husband, that she became very nervous.

Mrs. Rubin disappeared last Sunday morning at 5 o'clock. She arose, dressed herself in her newest clothes, adorned herself with diamond earrings and brooch, and gold watch and chain and left the house. Nothing has been heard from her since.

The missing woman wore a [illegible] suit. Her hair is black, she has black eyes and is about five feet six inches tall.

SHIP 9,000 BUSHELS OF POTATOES HERE

SEARSPORT, Me., Nov. [illegible]—Large shipments of potatoes are being made from this port to Boston markets. A consignment of 9,000 bushels was forwarded to-day by schooner. Potato raising has received a great impetus in this part of Maine and next year a greater crop will be planted than ever before.

$75,000 FIRE ON THE B. & M.

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 18.—The Boston & Maine railroad roundhouse at the junction was destroyed by fire early to-day with five locomotives. Several of the locomotives were new, one of them having been used on but one trip. The loss is estimated at approximately $75,000.

Three engines were pulled out, but the derailing of one of these prevented the removal of the others.

STOMACH AT FAULT

Indications of Disturbed Digestion Are Often Mistaken for Other Disorders and Cause Unnecessary Alarm.

Palpitation of the heart does not imply that the vital organ is diseased.

Pain in the back does not necessarily mean kidney disease.

Headache does not often indicate that there is anything wrong with your head.

All of these symptoms are caused by stomach trouble and when this is righted the alarming symptoms disappear. If you have them look to the condition of your stomach for the cause before you start to treat the symptoms rather than the disease.

If the sufferer from any form of stomach trouble is pale and the blood thin, the first step toward restoring the activity of the stomach is to improve the condition of the blood. A supply of rich, well-oxygenated blood is necessary to the process of digestion and with it, if errors in diet are avoided, nature will work a cure. This is known as the tonic treatment for indigestion and is illustrated by the experience of Mrs. C. L. Ritchey, of No. 1401 28th street, Rock Island, Ill., who owes her recovery from stomach trouble to a thorough trial of Dr. Williams Pink Pills. She says:

"I was sick for several months with stomach trouble and nervousness. I had no appetite and what I ate pained me and formed gas. Later I had palpitation of the heart. It was almost impossible for me to get any sleep, I became run down, weak, despondent and discouraged and could not bear to have any noise around me.

"At first I thought the doctor was helping me but I really became no better. When I heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I made up my mind to give them a trial. It was only a short time before I began to feel better, had a good appetite, could rest well and I was cured after taking only a few boxes. I always depend upon Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and recommend them heartily."

The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by building up the blood so that it can nourish and strengthen the weakened digestive system has made hundreds of cures in the most severe stomach disorders. A new edition of the booklet, "What to Eat and How to Eat," is free on request. Send a postal for it.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50 by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

SAY SPIRIT LU TOOK $23,000

Little "Lu," a rival to "Bright Eyes," as a controlling spirit, is blamed for the disappearance of $23,000 which Mrs. Dora T. Coffin of this city once possessed, but which she charges she gave to William H. Kohler, a palmist, formerly of No. 88 Boylston street. Kohler was brought back to Boston from New York and was held in $25,000, on a charge of larceny. It was brought out in the hearing before Judge Stevens that Kohler, besides his spirit "Lu," had a few other names under which he practised his profession, among them Eugene Conrad and Leroy de Childro. De Childro has a record of a term in the Charlestown State Prison, while Conrad is said to have been implicated in the looting of the National City Bank of Cambridge by George W. Coleman.

Little "Lu," according to Mrs. Coffin's story, was a spirit with stock market tendencies. "It" tipped Kohler off that in a certain stock "pool" money could be made at twenty dollars for each dollar invested. Kohler told her about it from a trance and she gave up her cash.

Mrs. Coffin is said to have lost her money to Kohler, while he was operating as a palmist in Boston under the name of Eugene Conrad. Mrs. Coffin is a widow of considerable wealth and met the palmist in New York. When he opened Boston offices she came here and was entertained lavishly by him.

Soon after this, it is alleged, the palmist began to talk of "Lu" to the New York woman, and little by little she dropped $23,000 into the stock pool upon the advice of the spirit. Finally she insisted upon knowing about the disposal of the money and she learned so little from the palmist that she consulted Assistant District Attorney Thomas Lavelle, who put Captain McGarr on the trail of Kohler, who had in the meantime left Boston.

An indictment was returned by the Suffolk Grand Jury as soon as it was learned that the missing man had been arrested in New York.

Kohler maintained sumptuous apartments in New York, where he occupied all four floors of a house at 241 West Forty-fourth street. He was widely known in the neighborhood as a man of wealth and entertained lavishly at his home.

Soon after his release he went to New York, where he started in the palmistry business, soon coming over to Boston to set up quarters at 88 Boylston street. Although his picture was in the rogues' gallery here, he seemed to have no fear of arrest, but operated boldly, and it is expected that other charges may yet be brought up against him.

ARISTOCRACY A MYTH, DR. W. HUTCHINSON TELLS NEW YORK 400

The best thing for this country is to get rid of our useless so-called "aristocracy." In truth, there is no such thing as an "aristocracy" here. It is the most arrant piece of nonsense for any one to say that there is an aristocracy or "old families" or "strains of the best blood" here.

The truth is that there isn't an "aristocratic" family in this country that couldn't be produced in fifty years—if all the present members were to die out—from the so-called "lower classes."

I am not sure but that the strain produced by the "lower classes" would be better than that of the present "aristocracy." This latter class, by the way, usually assists the decimation of their number by drink and other vices.—Dr. Woods Hutchinson in lecture before the New York "400."

SEEN LOST PUP? $5 REWARD UP

If you see a white Boston Terrier pup, sporting a brindle spot around one eye, grab said pup and telephone Palmer Delano at No. 28 Mather street, Dorchester. There's a five-spot in it for you.

If Palmer doesn't answer the 'phone—being only four years old—his mamma will talk for him.

Anyhow, Palmer wants that pup back and wants him awful bad at that. He watches out from the parlor window for some sign of a person bringing a dog up the front walk.

Palmer is the son and heir of Raymond P. Delano, real estate operator. Four months ago Palmer suggested to papa and mamma that a doggie would be a commendable addition to the family circle.

700 JOIN NEW LUDLOW STRIKE

LUDLOW, Nov. 18.—Seven hundred employes of the Ludlow Manufacturing Associates went out on strike to-day, as the result of the refusal of their employers to recognize the union of textile workers in Ludlow. As soon as the bosses learned of the intentions of their workmen, they telephoned to Sheriff Embury P. Clark of Hampden County at Springfield for all the deputies he could spare. The strike to-day is a direct outcome of the big strike of 3,000 employes of the Associates a year ago. If the employers stand out against the union, it is believed here that the strike will ultimately affect at least 2,800 members of the union.

Sends Force of Deputies.

Sheriff Clarke got together as many deputies as were available, and sent them here post haste.

The union men who quit seemed to be peaceably inclined, and so far there has been no outbreak. The local police, however, acting on the requests of the manufacturers, have called out every available member of the force. As Sheriff Clarke is an officer ranking as General in the State militia, he will be able to size up the situation as soon as he arrives here, and will be expected to exercise his judgment in calling on the Adjutant-General for help. It is not believed at this time that such a step will be necessary.

Labor leaders here stated to-day the present strike may lead to a general refusal of all the employes to work unless their union is recognized. While but a fourth of the total number of employes quit to-day, there are many points about the movement that recall in an vivid way the strike of last Fall.

Recall Strikers' Evictions.

A year ago hundreds of families suffered the greatest privations, and on one day several hundred Polish families were evicted from their homes, which are owned by the Manufacturing Associates. The evictions started a wave of protest that swept the nation, and finally resulted in the calling in of the federal officials.

After a month and a half, the strike was finally settled by arbitration. The reason for the strike at that time was the demand for higher pay by the workers. The strikers formed a union, which apparently has never been recognized by the employers.

HERE'S ANOTHER BLOW TO THE "COFFIN NAIL"

BANGOR, Nov 18.—A man who has passed many hunting seasons in the Maine woods, and who is preparing for his trip this year, says that never again will he number cigarettes among the articles to be carried along. The odor of cigarettes, so he affirms, can be detected above almost anything else by the fleet deer, and never during a trip when the members of his party were supplied with cigarettes did he even get a glimpse of a deer or moose.

IN 1898

reported that "the preparation fulfills ALL the requirements and presents ALL the conditions of a very satisfactory emulsion. In appearance and consistency it is not unlike cream and under the microscope the fat globules are seen to be of perfectly regular size and uniformly distributed. So well has the oil been emulsified that even when shaken with water the fat is slow to separate. The taste is decidedly unobjectionable and the Emulsion should prove an excellent food as well as a tonic."

We believe no other preparation of Cod Liver Oil has received such weighty commendation and if the same high authorities were to examine it now they would find it even finer, more digestible, more palatable and more satisfactory in every way; in fact, SCOTT'S EMULSION has so long been the one satisfactory and perfect Emulsion that it is accepted as the standard by medical practitioners all over the world, by the public and by hundreds of imitators, for it is the one and only Emulsion imitated.

The imitations are in name only for no other preparation of Cod Liver Oil is so pure, so perfect and so beneficial.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

has become the world's Standard Body-Builder because of the perfect purity of its ingredients, its absolute freedom from ALCOHOL or any other harmful substance and because the results from it are uniform and far greater than from any other preparation.

MANY G. O. P. LEADERS AFTER LODGE PLACE

The fight in the Massachusetts Legislature for the seat of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, which has already started in both parties, is attracting the attention of the whole country.

Instead of the contest being narrowed down until it is a conflict between Mr. Lodge and Congressman Butler Ames, as Lodge would have the public understand, there are scores of prominent Republicans who are really in a receptive condition and who would gladly step into the Senator's shoes if the opportunity presented itself.

There are not only many big Republicans who have been mentioned for the place, but there are others who have not been mentioned—men of prominence, of high standing in their party, who will get into the fight before it is at end.

In this connection it should be borne in mind that if Lodge had been a candidate for the Senate at the recent election, appealing directly to the votes of the people, as did the candidates on the State ticket, he would have gone down in defeat.

People Do Not Want Lodge.

The whole message of the overthrow of the Republican party in the State of Massachusetts, as it is acknowledged by progressive Republicans, is that the people do not want any more of Lodge.

In a measure Lodge did run as a candidate at the election. Some of the candidates for the General Court were pledged to vote for him. In every instance where an avowed Lodge man was a candidate the Democrat opposed to him received a greatly increased vote over that for the Democrat who ran in 1909.

The only Republican gains were in districts where the candidates were outspoken in their enmity to Lodge, or where they were unpledged.

On the other hand every Democrat elected knew that he was elected to vote AGAINST Lodge. That was made plain in every Democratic rally in the campaign. Not only was every Democrat pledged to the people to vote against Lodge, but the Democratic State convention went on record against Lodge in one of the most remarkable planks ever written into a State party platform.

All Democrats Pledged.

If there are any Democrats who think of wavering for one reason or another, it would be well for them to contemplate for a few moments this declaration of the party platform:

"We pledge all State Senators and Representatives elected on this platform to vote against the election of Senator Lodge."

That's the platform. That's the promise to the people. That promise, in conjunction with the fact that there will be so many good Democratic candidates for the Senate, will afford no Democrat of the Great and General Court a single reason for voting for Lodge.

Now as to the matter of the small field, as it is viewed by Senator Lodge, Lodge would make it look like this:

SENATOR HENRY CABOT LODGE.
Congressman Butler Ames.

But as a matter of fact, there have been many other Republicans mentioned who, without doubt, would be glad to accept the honor. Here are a few of them:

Joseph Walker, Speaker of the Massachusetts House.
Congressman John W. Weeks.
Congressman Samuel W. McCall.
Former Congressman Samuel L. Powers.
Samuel J. Elder, of Boston.
Congressman C. G. Washburn.
Former Governor John D. Long.
Former Mayor Edward U. Curtis.
Former Representative Robert Luce.
John Hays Hammond.
Mayor James Logan of Worcester.
Governor Eben S. Draper.
Former Governor Curtis Guild.
Former Governor John L. Bates.

Only Peep at Real Starters.

That is a much more impressive field to choose from than the one held up to the view of the public by Mr. Lodge. And Republicans should remember that this is only a peep at the real field of starters when the fight gets going good on Beacon Hill!

Affording even better Senatorial timber, in the minds of many conservative citizens, is the offering made by the Democrats. Up to date there are three avowed candidates. They are:

James H. Vahey.
William A. Gaston.
Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell.

Here are others whose names have been put forward by their friends:

William L. Douglas.
Thomas F. Cassidy, who made such a fine run for Lieutenant-Governor this year.
Judge John A. Aiken.
Charles S. Hamlin.
Joseph H. O'Neil.
Mayor John F. Fitzgerald.
John R. Thayer.
James B. Carroll.
Louis D. Brandeis.
Richard Olney.

And to this as a sort of independent candidate that would appeal to both parties, has been mentioned the name of President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot of Harvard.

Guild's Attitude.

Former Governor Guild has declared to the public that he is not a candidate for the Senate. In the same statement he said a good word for Lodge. That was to be expected. Guild is "regular." Bates and Walker have done about the same thing. But if these men were to see that Lodge was out of the fight altogether, they would naturally take another view of the advisability of taking the place themselves.

Governor Draper has made no statement of such a positive character as to bar him as a possibility.

Long says that he's out of politics, but he has not boosted Lodge. His friends declare that under certain circumstances he and others who are skittish about coming out for the place at this time, would not hesitate if the situation were a little more cleared.

Hammond is the close and confidential friend of Taft and the President of the League of Republican Clubs. Well informed Republicans say that Hammond would not shed many tears if Lodge were defeated.

Mr. Vahey got the earliest start among the Democratic candidates. Many of the members of the Great and General Court are already pledged to him. But the last few days of inquiries throughout the State have developed the fact that there is a feeling among the rank and file of the Democratic party that the candidate for the Senate should not come from Boston, the same place as the Governor.

Anti-Lodge Republicans.

That feeling would act against the three avowed candidates, Vahey, Gaston and O'Connell, as they are all from Boston.

Many of the friends of Cassidy are talking him up as a splendid young man for the Senate. They point to his great run in the recent election. They declare he is one of the best young orators of the State.

Strong arguments are made in favor of Douglas and Hamlin. Strong inducements are held out to Judge Aiken to prevail upon him to take the matter into consideration.

As the matter stands to-day, according to a careful canvass of the Legislature, Lodge is already defeated. Twelve Republican votes added to the Democratic vote would deadlock the Great and General Court on the vote for Senator. Thirteen Republican votes added to the Democratic vote would elect a Democrat or any other man the Democrats supported.

Fourteen Republicans have already declared against Lodge which, added to the Democrats, dooms him. Here is the list of anti-Lodge Republicans:

Senator Arthur L. Nason, Haverhill; Senator Joseph H. Hibbard, Lowell; Representatives William A. Bellamy, Taunton; John H. Cogswell, Lynn; Herman [illegible] MacDonald, Beverly; Russell A. Wood, Cambridge; Daniel P. Day, Hopkinton; George H. Stevens, Dracut; Erson B. Barlow, Lowell; George E. Marchand, Lowell; Charles T. Kilpatrick, Lowell; Benjamin Sharp, Nantucket, Albert H. Silvester, Worcester, and Charles H. Morgan, Lawrence.

But it behooves all of the Democrats to be in their seats right from the start if they would prevent their Republican enemies from playing a trick on them. The law requires a majority of the Legislature to be present when a Senator is voted upon which would mean a minimum number of 141. It takes a majority of this number present and voting to make a choice which would mean that seventy-one men could elect the Senator.

Democrats will recognize how easily the will of the people might be frustrated by a manipulation of the members in a way that is not entirely unknown in Boston.

Talk of Money.

There is talk that money may be used to land Lodge back in his old place. The people of Massachusetts will recall how Senator Lorimer, of Illinois, was yanked back from Washington to hear one of the worst political scandals aired since the days of the Credit Mobilier frauds. If there is any crookedness in connection with this Senatorial fight, it will all come out and the public will learn just who the crooks are.

HUGHES, TAFT CHOICE FOR CHIEF JUSTICE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Associate Justice Charles Evans Hughes will be the next Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, unless the President should change his mind between the time he left here for Panama and the re-assembling of Congress next month. President Taft told several members of the cabinet a few days before he went away of his determination to elevate the newest member of the Supreme bench to be Chief Justice and they agreed with him, that no better selection could be made for the post made vacant by the death of Melville W. Fuller.

HOLD PATRIOTIC SERVICE TO-NIGHT

A patriotic service will be held this evening at Temple Ohabei Shalom, Union Park street. Rabbi M. M. Eichler will conduct the services and read the President's Thanksgiving proclamation. The Rev. Dr. Thomas Van Ness of the Second Church of Boston will deliver the address.

LODGE MEETS "THE COLONEL"

Two of the causes of the recent Democratic landslide in this State have met again.

They are Colonel Roosevelt and Senator Lodge. The Democrats agree that Senator Lodge was one of the causes. Even some of the Republicans hereabouts admit that Colonel Roosevelt—and that Boston Arena speech—formed another worthy cause.

Colonel Roosevelt is back in New York, back on the job as contributing editor of The Outlook. He started in yesterday. Senator Lodge was in New York last night to address the New York Chamber of Commerce. They met later in the evening at the Union League Club. They did not sleep together.

BOYS' PRACTICAL TRAINING TALKS

The second day of the convention of the National Association for the Promotion of Industrial Education was devoted to a consideration of the industrial education of boys. The girls' side of the case was considered yesterday.

The morning session at 9:30 met in the lecture hall in the Public Library. There were about 250 people there, delegates and representatives of local business firms, interested in the topics discussed. In the audience to-day, there were more men than women, while yesterday the reverse was the case.

RED CROSS TO SELL SEALS

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Red Cross seals, replacing the stamps sold for several years in aid of the anti-tuberculosis movement and used extensively on letters during the holiday season, will be available this year on December 1. December 1, marking the opening of the Red Cross stamp campaign, will be known as seal day, when 50,000 Red Cross Christmas seals will be placed on sale in all parts of the United States, New York city alone undertaking to sell 10,000.

MERRY SEASON ON FOR BUDS

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

The buds are right in the midst of the merriest season known in Boston for years and each day some new event is added to their already brimming calendar. Mrs. Edward D. Brandegee has just issued invitations for the dinner-dance which she is to give on the evening of Tuesday, November 30, in honor of Miss Lillian Sears, one of the wealthiest and most important of the year's debutantes. The guests will be entirely made up of this season's buds with just a few of the older girls and will take place at the beautiful Brandegee estate, "Faulkner Farm."

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird have just issued invitations for the ball which they are to give at the Somerset on the evening of Friday, December 2, from 10 until 2:30 o'clock in honor of that pretty debutante, Miss Hannah Wheelwright Cobb.

* * *

An interesting New York girl to be added to our ever-lengthening list of young matrons from that city will be Miss Gladys Rice, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Rice, whose wedding to John Saltonstall takes place in December. They are to occupy the Adele Thayer house in Commonwealth avenue. Miss Rice has just concluded an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. Gordon Meats, at her Beverly estate and has returned to her home in New York.

* * *

An interesting visitor in Boston this week is Mrs. Grenville Clark of New York, who was formerly Fanny Dwight, and who has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dwight at their home in Hereford street. Mr. and Mrs. Clark have been spending the Summer at "Overlake," Burlington, Vt., the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Crawford Clark.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. S. Parkman Shaw have concluded their prolonged season at their Lenox estate, "Redwood," and have returned to their town house in Marlboro street for the Winter.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. William Ellery Bright of Waltham have issued cards for a tea which they are to give at the Brae-Burn Country Club to introduce their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Bright.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Fenno, who have been making an unusually long season at their Cape Cod country home on Fenno Hill, Falmouth, are now at their Beacon street home. Mrs. S. A. Rice and Preston Rice have also returned from Falmouth.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Hall, who have been abroad for the past sixteen months, have returned. The Halls sailed abroad directly after their marriage and after a tour on the Continent established themselves in Paris for the Winter. Mrs. Hall was formerly Miss Evelyn Ames, a daughter of the late Governor Ames and Mrs. Ames of Commonwealth avenue and North Easton. The Halls are now settled in their home at No. 260 Beacon street.

* * *

Honorable Horace H. Coolidge and his family have returned from their Summer home on Jerusalem road, Cohasset, to their town house in Newbury street.

* * *

The William L. Putnams have returned to their Beacon street house from their Manchester villa. They will keep their Summer home open all Winter, however, for the various week-end house parties they have planned.

* * *

The John T. Brights have returned from their Summer at Marblehead and are at the Vendome for the Winter.

* * *

The Francis W. Fabyans, who spent the Summer at Manchester, have returned to their town house in Commonwealth avenue for the Winter.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. George Lee and family are planning to sail for Europe on the 30th to spend the entire Winter abroad.

* * *

Mrs. William F. Draper and Miss Margaret Draper, who have been in New York since concluding their season on the North Shore, are to spend the season at Cannes, where they have leased a villa.

* * *

The Albert S. Bigelows have returned from their Summer home, "The Ridges," at Cohasset, to their town house in Gloucester.

* * *

Mrs. William H. Cabot returned to her Brookline home this week from her Summer cottage at Beverly Farms. Mrs. Hall Curtis has also returned from Beverly Farms and is at her town house in Spruce street.

CLOTHES OVER STOVE SET FIRE TO HOUSE

Clothes hanging over the stove to dry at No. 1 Ward street, Roxbury, caught fire at 8 o'clock to-day and the flames spread to the woodwork. An alarm was rung in and the fire was extinguished after about $300 damage had been done. The house is a two-story dwelling owned and occupied by George W. Conner.

VERMONT PLANS TO DROP DEATH PENALTY

MONTPELIER, Vt., Nov. 18.—Another attempt will be made to abolish capital punishment in Vermont. A bill which proposes to do away with the death penalty has been introduced in the Legislature by Representative Ellis of Brookfield, and a vigorous effort to effect its passage is promised by its supporters.

NASHUA ELECTION BILLS HELD UP

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 18.—Bills from the inspectors of checklists to the extent of $997.50 have been held up by the finance committee. They call for pay for fifty-eight days' work in connection with the elections. It is stated that the committee will not allow these bills until they are fully itemized.

U. S. LOSES OIL TRUST SUIT

JACKSON, Tenn., Nov. 18.—In a ruling which required twenty minutes to read, Judge John E. McCall in the United States Circuit Court, wrote finis to the efforts of the Government to have assessed against the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, penalties aggregating in excess of $30,000,000. The court instructed that a verdict of not guilty be returned. The suit at issue was probably the most important litigation against one of the greater corporations ever fought out in the South. The Elkins law, regarding interstate commerce, was violated, it was alleged, by "scheme and device," the specific offence charged being the receipt of freight rate concessions.

TERRELL TO SUCCEED CLAY.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 18.—Governor Brown has announced the appointment of ex-Governor G. M. Terrell as Senator to succeed the late Senator Clay, who died in Atlanta last Sunday. Ex-Governor Terrell will serve until the Legislature meets in June to elect a Senator to fill the unexpired term of Senator Clay.

GOV.-ELECT FOSS TO AID INDUSTRIAL EDUCATIONAL WORK

I do not need to assure you that during my administration I shall endeavor to see to it, so far as in me lies, that Massachusetts shall still lead, as she leads to-day, and always has led, in the education and in the industrial and commercial life of this nation.—Governor-elect Eugene N. Foss at banquet of Industrial Education Society.

GORKY FAINTS AT NEWS FROM TOLSTOI

NAPLES, Nov. 18.—Reports from Capri say that when Maxim Gorky heard of the rumored death of Tolstoi he fainted. It was considerable time before he was revived and his condition is considered quite serious owing to the shock. He explained his emotion by saying that the death of Tolstoi to Russians could only be compared to the death of Dante to Italians.

BANDMASTER SOUSA WELL

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 18.—John Philip Sousa, bandmaster and composer, who was confined in the New Haven Hospital suffering from an attack of malaria, has left that institution and is now in New York. He seems to have fully recovered from his illness.

CRIPPEN'S FATHER DYING, DESTITUTE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 18.—Myron Crippen, the aged father of Dr. H. H. Crippen, who is in prison in England under death sentence for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore Crippen, is dying in destitute circumstances. In a little dingy room in the rear of No. 245 Flower street Mr. Crippen, who is eighty years old, was discovered to-day suffering from pneumonia and heart trouble. Death was imminent. "I do not want to live to see Harry hanged," the old man muttered over and over again.

KEITH SILENT ON PLANT DEAL

BROCKTON, Nov. 18.—A persistent rumor to the effect that the George E. Keith Shoe Company, the largest manufactory in the city, is contemplating taking over the Thomas G. Plant Shoe Manufacturing plant at Jamaica Plain and continuing to make the lines of women shoes recently discontinued by the Plant Company, following the sale by Mr. Plant of certain machinery making processes to the United Shoe Machinery Company, is not denied by George E. Keith, president of the Keith Company. "I prefer to have no statement coming from me," said Mr. Keith, "not at this time anyway. The matter will right itself at the proper time."

SEE MUTT ON HARVARD TEAM

When you read that the Harvard foot ball eleven had gone to Farmington to prepare for its annual battle against the Blue warriors, it no doubt recalled to your mind one of the Mutt and Jeff series of cartoons in which Fisher depicted Mutt as a member of the Harvard team. That was only one of the series of cartoons that Fisher has drawn. Sixty others have been bound in book form and you can get one of the books by saving seven consecutive coupons from the Daily and Sunday issues of the AMERICAN and taking them, with thirty-five cents, to the premium department or to your local news agent.

The demand for the Fisher book of cartoons is great. In it Fisher himself has selected the best of his series. It's worth the price to find out what the originator of this series thinks are the best sixty-one pictures of his work.

The AMERICAN goes into more homes than all the other evening papers of Boston combined. It is the Quality newspaper.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH

A Pleasant, Simple, but Safe and Effectual Cure for It.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing, headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson, the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. R. S. Workman, Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

WOMEN! HOW TO GAIN FLESH

BACK TO THE FARM FOR SURPLUS WOMEN

Still another problem confronts aspirants for political honors. Before they can be elected to public office they must answer this question and define their attitude on [illegible]. Already Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Congressmen [illegible] Ames and J. F. O'Connell and other aspirants for Senator Lodge's seat are wrestling with the query propounded to them by the Women's Homestead Association, which believes that no more important question faces the country than the problem of the disposition of women who can find no work to do, no matter how willing they may be to work. The promoters believe that a panacea lies in the utilization of national and State aid to buy homesteads now waste land and settle these women upon them.

Overcoats

The greatest overcoat selling this store has ever known is now taking place here. We've never had such a continuous, enthusiastic demand for overcoats—never before have we been able to supply such smartly-made, nifty-looking overcoats at prices so decidedly low. Last Saturday we smashed our own sales record for big selling—actually doing more business than we ever did before in any single day.

This has a direct meaning for you. For one thing it means that you get the very latest novelties, because an overcoat doesn't stay in this store long enough to get old. Really, we display a new stock of coats every week.

Mr. Wolf and the clothing buyer just returned from a buying trip to New York with some of the smartest appearing overcoats ever gotten out. If you come here today, you will find an entirely different stock than we showed you last week. And the prices, you will have the satisfaction of knowing, are the lowest in this country.

$15 Overcoats

That Are $15 Values At $10

Value is written all over these overcoats. The kind of value that makes a man feel sure of getting his money's worth. We have a reputation of value-giving with 30 years of satisfaction-giving behind it.

When you stop to consider this fact, you can readily see why it is that we can sell at prices so much lower than other stores, as well as why we sell so many more overcoats than any other Boston store. The new patterns (fresh from New York) in overcoats with the Presto or two-way collar, are particularly attractive; the fancy patterned cheviot coats in knee lengths present an entirely new range of designs and colorings; the 46-inch black kerseys are splendidly made, lined and trimmed.

Other Overcoats at $12, $15, $18, $20, $22, $25, $28, $30

"We Will Fight It Out On This Line But It Won't Take All Summer"
—The Gold Dust Twins

Gold Dust is always fighting for cleanliness. Dirt is its arch enemy, and is put to rout wherever the yellow package bearing the piccaninnies appears.

Use Gold Dust for every form of cleaning about your home—on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Read directions on the package, and learn of its manifold uses.

Gold Dust does more work, better work and more kinds of work than soap or any other cleanser in the world. It has stood the test for over 25 years, has increased steadily in sales and prestige, and is today the leader in the cleanser line. Don't be put off with a substitute which will do but a small part of the work of Gold Dust.

Use Gold Dust for washing clothes and dishes, scrubbing floors, cleaning woodwork, oil-cloth, silverware and tinware, polishing brasswork, cleaning bathroom pipes, refrigerators, etc., softening hard water and making the finest soft soap.

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia, or Kerosene with Gold Dust. Gold Dust has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The Gold Dust Twins need no outside help.

"The Good Old State of Maine" was the topic of interest at the meeting of the Dorchester Daughters of Maine at the home of Mrs. Mary F. Pettee, Dorchester Centre [illegible] Minot being the principal speaker. Much of the discourse was in an historical vein, though the recent Democratic landslide was touched upon. Mrs. Pettee was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Mary A. Wing, Mrs. W. P. Hersey, Mrs. F. R. Washburn, Mrs. G. F. Kempton, Mrs. William Chase and Mrs. Annis E. Stearns. The musical program was given under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy W. Fitts.

CAPTAIN DROPS DEAD AT WHEEL OF VESSEL

GLOUCESTER, Nov. 18.—While at the wheel of the coasting schooner Kennebec, Captain Simon B. Huntington, of Calais, Me., dropped dead of heart disease. Mate Nels Howard took the vessel and steered the schooner back into the harbor from the Dog Bar breakwater. The Kennebec was on its way from Calais to Pawtucket, R. I., with a load of laths. Captain Huntington leaves a son Frank, of the schooner General Scott, which is now in Boston harbor, and another son and daughter in Calais. Captain Huntington was sixty-three years of age.

RUTHERFORD GIRLS IN AUTO ACCIDENT

SAYVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Miss Margaret Rutherford, first daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Sr., and her sister Barbara, it was learned to-day, narrowly escaped serious injury when a new auto which they were driving, was wrecked near their Idle Hour resort in Oakdale. The girls had taken a few lessons in running the car in the Idle Hour enclosure, and yesterday for the first time ventured on the public roads alone. They were travelling slowly at the time of the accident and both escaped. It is rumored that Kermit Roosevelt has lost his heart to Mrs. Vanderbilt's daughter.

NOTICED BALD SPOT COMING ON HEAD

Interesting Story of Consultation with Dermatologist and Successful Use of Cuticura. Also Case of Severe Ivy Poisoning, Relief of Which by Cuticura was Permanent.

"Nine years ago I noticed a bald spot coming on my head and, as I was only nineteen years old, it did not seem natural, as it was on the side of my head instead of on top. My mother advised my seeing a dermatologist and I did so, one of the best in Boston, and he said it was due to a germ I must have got at the barber's. He couldn't assure a cure, but by treating each hair [illegible] electricity, he said [illegible] He proposed giving [illegible] treatment every month for [illegible] When I told my mother [illegible] Cuticura and this I did, using Cuticura Soap and Ointment every day. EXPERT SHOWS HOW YALE TEAM CAN WIN

By Fred J. Murphy.

Famous football expert, half-back on Yale football teams of 1907, 1908 and 1909 and Umpire of the recent Carlisle Indian Harvard All-Stars game at the Stadium.

Yale's chance for [illegible] against Harvard depend on the showing it makes in the first ten minutes of play. This has always been characteristic of a Yale-Harvard game, but in to-morrow's game those first ten minutes will be more important than ever, for an overconfident Harvard team, with visions of an overwhelming victory, is going to find opposed to it eleven sullen, aggressive warriors who will fight as only a Yale team can fight when the odds are against them.

It is traditional that if you can hold a Harvard eleven in the first ten minutes of play you will have no trouble during the rest of the game, but if you let them get their stride early in the game they will play like demons.

This Harvard team [illegible] very strong, but I venture to say that if Yale can only [illegible] it will [illegible] [illegible]

Harvard Is Over Confident.

And this Harvard team [illegible] and still is [illegible] [illegible]

Peter [illegible] [illegible]

Yale Physical [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Tom Shevlin to put life and fight into the team, that is why Yale [illegible] there is hope even in the [illegible]

Yale Sees Victory.

That Yale team has just beaten one over-confident team and is just beginning to realize its own possibilities.

Kilpatrick is sure to shine and will be a hard man for Harvard to handle. This is his last chance to play against Harvard [illegible]

Harry Vaughn will, in all probability, start the game at right end. Here is a man who is a past master of this game and a man who has had little chance to show his worth in the big games because of injuries last year, but, as a matter of fact, he ranks in the same class with Kilpatrick.

Scully, McDevitt and Fuller are new on the team, but the experience they got from the Princeton game will give them the confidence they need for to-morrow.

Morris at centre has developed fast this year. On the defence he covers every play on either end or in the line.

Boston Boy In Eli Line-Up.

Charley Paul, a Boston lad, is not in the best of condition, but at any time can be depended on to clean up everything in his territory.

Captain Daly and Field in the backfield are used to the excitement of a big game and are the real steadying influences of the team. They are both of the aggressive fighting type.

Kistler at fullback is a wonder at boring through the line, but is not so good in the open.

[illegible] for a real slashing fight just watch [illegible] to-morrow. He is a fair punter, a good man for advancing the ball, and a [illegible] generr[illegible]

[illegible] is the team that Harvard will have to face to-morrow, and every one of these men will fight as they have never [illegible] to beat Harvard. It is a [illegible] that has been carefully trained in [illegible] and is always alive to its [illegible]

[illegible] they are radically different from [illegible] used formerly. Tom Shevlin [illegible] brought something from the West and the success of these plays against the second team and against Princeton [illegible] give the [illegible] greatest satisfaction.

Yale to Spring New Plays.

Harvard men at the Princeton game [illegible] that Harvard can stop these plays [illegible] trouble, but Yale has saved her [illegible] formations for Harvard and [illegible] it might be hard to stop [illegible]

ALL STOMACH TROUBLE VANISHES AFTER TAKING A LITTLE DIAPEPSIN.

If you had some Diapepsin handy and would take a little now your stomach distress or Indigestion would vanish in five minutes and you will feel fine.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, out-of-order stomach before you realize it.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no undigested food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

[illegible] from all stomach [illegible] drugstore waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other stomach disturbance.

Admire Hilton Clothes

We claim to clothe more professional men in every calling and men of affairs generally in ready-for-service apparel than all of the big producers of clothes in the United States combined!

There is scarcely a theatrical company of importance in the East to-day that one or more leading members are not wearers of Hilton [illegible] Clothes.

In "THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER," for example, Hilton Clothes have made fast friends of four of its leading members—Harry Fairleigh, Francis Boyle, George Tallman and George O'Donnell.

Nothing short of EXTRAORDINARY MERIT could possibly have won for Hilton Clothes the patronage of such a following of distinguished individuals as we enjoy.

What is it that makes Hilton Ready-for-Service Clothes so popular with the best dressed men everywhere? It is because they are the equal in every respect of the showiest, costliest, most luxurious custom-made clothes produced. Yet our prices are startlingly low considering the quality of our products.

Hilton-Presto Combination Storm and Dress Overcoat at $15.

Prices $12.50 to $40

Good Lines

There is no style to a shoe unless the design was made on good lines—and this is true entirely regardless of quality of leather or workmanship.

In all the shoe-lasts made for us, we insist upon a certain well-defined and stylish shape.

Holding strictly to the lines of the model in the building of the shoe is merely a matter of care and skill.

BATTERY A TO BATTLE CADETS IN STADIUM

The always keen rivalry between the 1st Corps of Cadets and Battery A reaches a climax on Thanksgiving morning, when in the Harvard Stadium will be played the annual gridiron battle between the trained elevens representing these crack military organizations.

For several years this game has been recognized as one of the leading social events of the season, aside from its athletic interests. Some of the best football stars who have fought hard for their college and prep school elevens will be lined up to battle for their colors.

COACHES SAY CORNELL PLAYING IS "ROTTEN"

ITHACA, Nov. 18.—"Rotten work" is the way the coaches characterized the playing of the Cornell varsity in the practice game, when the scrubs, for the first time this season trimmed them up. The second team scored three touchdowns, though they had an advantage by placing the ball on the 25-yard line each time. Two of the touchdowns were on Seagrave, the varsity right end, who was severely censured by the coaches. Collins got one, going around on a forward pass, and again on a fake. The third score was made by Butts on a delayed pass. Butler tried a field goal from the [illegible]-yard line for the varsity, but failed to make good. Later Whyte scored the only touchdown for the regulars, taking the ball 85 yards.

THE GALE & KENT HISTORY—

What is a good history?

A good history is a record of important events involving public welfare.

Give an example of such an event.

The establishing of the firm of GALE & KENT AT 96 COURT STREET.

When did this event take place?

They opened their tailoring shop 18 YEARS AGO this season.

What do they get for their clothes?

The prices for a suit of clothes or an overcoat at Gale & Kent's run $15 to $25.

This seems a very low price for good clothes.

Are the Gale & Kent clothes satisfactory in every way?

Oh, yes; it is a matter of current tailoring history that all clothes built at 96 COURT STREET are perfect in fit, style, wear and workmanship.

Is this guaranteed?

Absolutely---no argument---and they are open every evening to take orders on that basis.

Kissing May Be Love's Death

By DOROTHY DIX

A MAN who was recently haled into [illegible] for wife desertion, declares that he was driven from home by his spouse's excessive demonstrations of affection.

"When, Judge," he explained, "when I [illegible] of an evening [illegible] and when I was starting to work of a morning she would kiss [illegible] at a time. It made me sick. I just got so I couldn't stand it any more and so I beat it."

Can you blame him?

[illegible]

heart.

[illegible]

The Masculine Way

[illegible] do not kiss nor fall [illegible] caressing them" as [illegible] of women and even in [illegible] value a kiss in proper [illegible] whereas a woman es[illegible] of a kiss as a proof [illegible] direct ratio to its fre[illegible]

[illegible] merely by way of not[illegible] are not kissers by nature [illegible] that men are not demon[illegible] their affection while women [illegible] The women who persist [illegible] caresses on men, make their [illegible] lives, for the men are not [illegible] they are bored, satiated.

[illegible] who voiced the eternal [illegible] against too many kisses [illegible] "Stay me with flagons [illegible] for I am sick of love" [illegible]

Woman the Kissee

Many a man runs the risk of a breach [illegible] rather than face the pros[illegible] [illegible]

The minute the woman's lips are free to him, he takes kissing out of the pleasure class and puts it on the duty list.

Young women often write to this department and ask if they should permit [illegible] men to kiss them. Never. The girl who doesn't [illegible] refuse to let a man kiss her [illegible] It is always the kiss for which [illegible] risk his neck for [illegible] the one that [illegible] in front of or be[illegible] dodge.

[illegible]

Kiss at the Right Time

The third moral to this story is that the welcome kisses must be given at [illegible]

It is a kiss utterly without sentiment, a kiss flavored with bacon and eggs, a perfunctory kiss that is received in a perfunctory manner, and that is as likely to hit the back of the woman's hair, or the tip of her ear, as it is her lips.

[illegible] I've got to hurry or I'll [illegible] is something that [illegible] to get through with," and she is [illegible] her housekeeping, or what the children are doing, or the shopping she is going to do, and both of them hustle [illegible] ceremony and are glad [illegible]

[illegible] Cupid, observing it, turns up [illegible] to the daisies and chants [illegible] over the kiss that was, and [illegible] that is.

[illegible] ants! Profaners of sacred [illegible] idiots!" he cries. "Better one [illegible] a year that is warm with real love [illegible] thrilling with fire, than a million [illegible] that are nothing but the touch of lips."

Scientists tell us that kissing is one of the most dangerous amusements known to [illegible]nity. This being the case, it is [illegible] to be desired that the practice of kissing should be discouraged, and that [illegible] over kisses should be suppressed.

Day's Best Story

DR. RUSSELL WALLACE (who shares with Darwin the discovery of the principle of natural selection and takes a [illegible] interest in spiritualism) tells of an [illegible] experience he once had while "ghost hunting" in a country graveyard. Walking among the graves one night in the company of the sexton, [illegible] claimed to have seen the "shadowy form," Dr. Wallace asked, "Have you any idea whose ghost it was you saw?"

"I can't tell you, sir," was the reply, "but over there lies a man who had three wives. On the stone of the first, there is 'my wife'; on the second, 'my dear wife' and on the third, 'my beloved wife.' If any ghost does walk hereabouts I should say it is the first wife's."

Letters of a Bride

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Fernleigh.

MUMSIE DEAR—I found your letter on our return from the Grays, and I wish most awfully that it had come before we went away.

For I've been a naughty girl, Mumsie—a naughty, horrid girl.

Mr. Sinclair was at the Grays, and I—I hate to confess it even to you, but I am afraid I flirted with him dreadfully.

I really didn't enjoy it one bit, but I was cross and unhappy, and I wanted Bobby to see that I had some will of my own and wouldn't be dominated entirely by his family.

Now I'm afraid that Mr. Sinclair has the idea that Bobby does not treat me well, for when we said good-by he held my hand so tight and said, "Dear little girl, I wish I could help you!"

I looked up at him in such surprise that he dropped my hand and said, rather bitterly, "At your old tricks Peggy?" I feel almost sorry for Caton, poor chap."

Woman's Logic

Now, Mumsie, wasn't that horrid of him? I suppose he meant that I was flirting, but it was a very vulgar way of putting it, and he needn't think I was flirting with him for amusement; I was simply teaching Bobby a lesson.

I'm very sorry that I ever looked at Mr. Sinclair, for Eleanor Peckham was there, and I fully mean to make a match between those two. And now, I suppose, I've spoiled it, for a time at least. Men are so stupid, Mumsie.

Bobby never mentioned my talking so much with Mr. Sinclair, except to say once in, oh, such a cold tone:

"Peggy, don't you think that you are making yourself rather conspicuous, considering you are a bride of three months."

By that time I was sorry and ready to creep into his arms, and be forgiven, but some horrid little spirit in me wouldn't let me say so. I just laughed and walked away.

That was last night, and we have hardly spoken since. Bobby took an early train to town this morning and I came home in the motor. Mr. Sinclair asked if he could drive me home in his car, but I said no.

And when I got home, Mumsie, I found your dear letter.

Every word you wrote is right, Mumsie, and I have been a thoughtless, selfish, spoiled girl.

Peggy Reforms

I did not realize that Mrs. Caton was so frail that perhaps this might be the last Thanksgiving she would be here. Poor, darling Bobby, he loves his mother so.

I'll go there for Thanksgiving and I'll be just as nice as I can be and try and made them like me. I'll even be nice to Charlotte, and I'm sorry I said that I hoped she'd be an old maid.

Being married is so heavenly that I couldn't wish even my worst enemy to be an old maid.

But, some way or other, I rather think Charlotte is cut out to be an old maid, don't you Mumsie?

I can't wait for Bobby to come home and forgive me. Supposing he is very angry and shouldn't come home to-night, what would I do, Mumsie? I just couldn't bear it.

I mean to tell him that I only talked to Mr. Sinclair because I was so unhappy and that I never, never could think of being even interested in any man but himself.

I've put on my pink satin tea gown, with pink slippers and I really look very nice, and, oh, I wish he'd come, my heart is beating so.

I'll remember all you say, Mumsie, about not acting like a spoiled child. Being the only child, I suppose I have had things pretty much my own way. But I mean to try and be unselfish and think of others.

You say that breakfasting in bed is a bad habit, and that I ought to get up and give Bobby his breakfast. I will after this. Bobby has been so sweet about it, he is such a darling.

I hear the motor, though it isn't time for him to come for another hour, and my heart is going thump, thump. What if he shouldn't forgive me, the moment he comes in, what would I do?

PEGGY CATON.

P.S.—He's forgiven me, Mumsie, and he came out on an early train, just because he couldn't wait to see me and he brought me the loveliest bunch of pink roses. We are never going to quarrel again, and he is happy about Thanksgiving. And I'm happy, too, and I'm going to be a good, good girl.

Worldly Wisdom

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

OUR idea of a waste of energy is to take books to a train for a bride to read on her wedding journey.

When a woman spends more on an article than she had intended, she says she will "make up for it on something else," and when this "something else" on which she must economize is finally reached nine times in ten it is something she has to buy for her husband.

A man never knows how many paths there were by which he could have avoided a bad place in the road until after he has fallen in.

How little and dried up the cheese appears to the rat after it is caught in the trap!

What has become of the nice, fat, comfortable old lady for whom the middle-aged spread had no terrors?

A woman never knows what it is possible to do with only one arm to work with until she has a baby on the other.

The trouble you prepare for is the one that never comes.

Build a fence around daughter, and if she is impulsive make it several bars higher.

What is the Higher Life? A woman who has seven little noses to wipe, and does it well, wants to know if she is leading it.

It happened once upon a time that a man complained because none of the pictures his wife had ever had taken looked like her. Being a wise woman, she did not blame the photographer, but sat again, and the next picture was a perfect likeness, for she carried a crying baby on one arm, held a broom under the other and a dustpan in her hand.

Moisant Tells How to Fly

By JOHN B. MOISANT

Copyright 1910, by J. B. Moisant.

EXPLANATION OF THE MONOPLANE

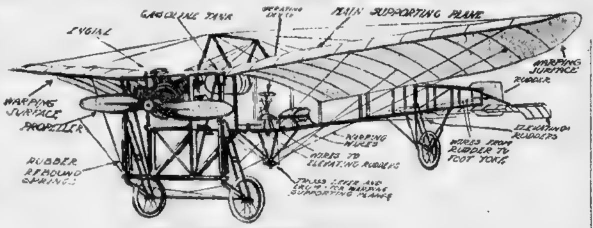

DIAGRAM SKETCH SHOWING PARTS OF MONOPLANE

W[illegible] writing a somewhat technical subject. It deals wit[illegible] construction of [illegible] plane. It costs quite a lot to build flying machines, because the materials used in them have to be of the best. They have to be selected with great care and with expense as a secondary consideration. For every bit of wood, every piece of metal and cloth has to keep the flyer safely in [illegible] really depends upon [illegible] plane, or, if it be [illegible] with great [illegible]

[illegible] standard types [illegible] The biplane is preferred by [illegible] who advance various arguments in [illegible] They say it will glide to the [illegible] better than a monoplane if anything happens to the engine or propeller, and that it is better in a strong wind.

Simplicity of Monoplane

There is this much to say in behalf of [illegible] monoplane as against the biplane. It offers less resistance to the air, and what resistance it does offer is better supported [illegible] its through the air easier and holds itself up [illegible] It is nearer in ideals of construction to the lines of a bird.

For purposes of simplicity in explaining this type, let us suppose that we [illegible] a monoplane standing before us. It [illegible] queer looking [illegible] to attract attention [illegible] large wings which sweep out on each side of the framework. This framework is of wooden construction, and looks something like a pile-driver which has been turned over on its side.

The whole contrivance rest on three [illegible] The framework is built of pine [illegible] hickory, separated by transverse bars, [illegible] is trussed by diagonal wires.

[illegible] frame is largest at the front, where the main or sustaining planes are located, and it tapers gracefully to a point at the rear [illegible] main planes have a slight curve [illegible] I do not believe this curve is necessary. Every aviator has his own opinion as to the curved wing [illegible] which I have built [illegible] entirely. However, we are dealing with the standard type.

Righting the Machine

[illegible] in place [illegible] of the wings there is what is known as a warp. This is a pliable surface which may be either pulled upward or downward so that it offers resistence to the wind while the machine is in motion.

These warps are not very important parts of an aeroplane. Wires lead from them to the steering apparatus. The wires are arranged so that when they pull one of the warps downward, the warp on the other wing is drawn upward. Suppose the machine is travelling through the air at the rate of fifty miles an hour, and a current of wind suddenly strikes the right wing from above, pushing it downward and throwing the monoplane off its keel.

The aviator has two ways of [illegible] the machine again. He can either use the direction, or lateral steering rudder or the warping apparatus. It is never really necessary to use the warps except in making turns.

Besides the front planes there is a small [illegible] plane at the rear of the machine. On each end of it there are other planes which are movable. Their surfaces are concave, and that side of them faces the earth.

The object of the rear plane is to balance the machine; that of the two smaller ones attached to it is to send the monoplane upward or downward and also to aid in the balancing. These movable planes, or elevating rudders are attached by wires to the steering device. When they are thrown downward while the machine is in flight their concave surfaces offer a resistance to the rush of air, which tends to send the monoplane downward. The opposite effect is gained by throwing them upward.

After the rear plane and the elevating [illegible] we have the steering rudder, which is attached to the back part of the framework in a vertical position. That works just as the rudder of a boat does. When it is thrown toward the left or the right the machine travels in that direction, because of the resistance offered by the rudder in the air.

Aeroplane Propellers

At the very front of the monoplane is the propeller. This works like the propeller of a steamship. As the air is not so dense as water the propeller of an aeroplane has to turn much faster, in order to gain momentum for the machine.

Aeroplane propellers make from 700 to 1,400 revolutions per minute. Each revolution sends the machine along a certain distance. On some aeroplanes there is a contrivance for showing how many revolutions per minute the propeller is making, and in this way aviators know about how fast they are traveling.

The propeller is attached to a high powered gasoline engine. Anybody who operates an automobile can operate these engines.

This wheel does not turn. It is fixed in a bell socket, and connected with it are the wires from the warps of the two supporting wings and the rear elevating rudders.

The wires are arranged so that if you want to go up while in motion you pull the wheel back toward you. That raises the elevating rudders so that the wind strikes their convex surfaces and tends to shove the machine upward.

If you want to descend while in the air you shove the wheel forward, and that lowers the elevating rudders. Their concave surfaces are thus slanting downward, and the air striking them in that position very naturally sends the tail upward and the machine downward.

The wire which works the main wing warps, and the elevating rudder are connected with the steering wheel. If you want to send your machine upward, you pull the wheel toward you; downward, push the wheel from you. If a current of air tends to send the right plane downward at an alarming angle and you want to use the warp of the wings, you throw the wheel over toward the left, and that adjusts the warps to the proper angle so that the equilibrium of the car will be restored.

A yoke, upon which the feet rest, controls the steering rudder, so that the machine can be steered in any direction laterally by manipulating the yoke with the feet. If you want to send the machine toward the left you push the yoke forward with the left foot; to the right, you push it forward with the right foot.

Many sorts of fabrics, from silk to linen, are used for the planes of flying machines. It is hardly necessary to dwell upon these fabrics, for they are interesting only to experts.

THE DOUBLE CROSS

A Great American Mystery Story by Gilson Willets

[illegible]

CHAPTER XXIV.—(Continued)

"NO [illegible] People [illegible] seeing you with [illegible] betrothed."

But [illegible] all the [illegible] streets. They [illegible] way."

"It is only a step—to the studio. Swastika is waiting there for me. I told her to go there when I started after the Senorita Alva. And now—we've both lost the Golden Senorita, haven't we, John? But you [illegible] straight to the del Trevenos', won't you? You won't follow—Alva—any more, will you?"

[illegible]

"No, John," she [illegible] moving away, but [illegible] to add: "I only wish you would [illegible]"

[illegible]

"Yes," she called back. "Because—the Golden Senorita loves you, John—loves, loves you."

A few minutes later, while I sauntered, dreamily, on my way to del Treveno's house, I [illegible]

"Why in Heaven's name didn't I speak to her about that strange scene in the Catacombs? She seemed different, just now—seemed a changed Felipa, a Felipa showing a new side of her character. Ah, I know. She was just now like she was the night I talked with her in the stranger's room at the hacienda—when she fought me off in my attempts to caress her. This Felipa who just left me seems to be less shy and more audacious than the Felipa I parted from this morning. This Felipa seems to possess less timidity and more composure—more experience, more worldliness and more frankness [illegible]"

Cogitation

A little later as I neared del Treveno's house I again soliloquized:

"But what is this new game of Felipa's? Why did she say that the Golden Senorita loves me? Is it part of the same game she has been playing ever since I met her? But to-night, Felipa dear—I'll either see a cross on your arm, or I'll start for Mexico City to get free of that marriage contract, in order to return and marry you, Felipa, dear."

Marry [illegible]? What of the stranger in the black mask?

I looked back, saying: "Who is that masked admirer of yours, anyhow?"

And still looking back, I saw a woman turn out of the Alameda and into one of the side streets. Was she Felipa? If so, she had doubled on her own tracks for her course now was directly opposite to the one she had taken when she left me. The woman wore a white dress and had black hair—nothing very distinctive, to be sure, in a city where all the senoritas wear white dresses and have black hair.

Yet—that form, that graceful carriage. It was surely Felipa. I concluded that she had started in the wrong direction, had discovered her mistake, and was now bound direct for the photographic studio.

I hastened to the street into which she had turned—arrived at the corner just in time to see her enter the second house down—a very pretty bungalow, built mission style, with a fountain in the centre of the surrounding garden.

"That photographer of hers lives in a prosperous looking house," I informed myself.

I noted, too, the name of the street painted on the wall of the corner house, thus:

"Jesus Del Monte."

CHAPTER XXV.

Entr'acte at the Opera.

IN the library at del Treveno's, just before dinner, I found Felipa reading "The Man of the Lost Memory."

"Thank you for this book, John," she cried. "Isn't it exciting? I mean to finish it before I go to bed, if I have to sit up all night."

She wore a filmy French creation of black, with pearls in her hair and around her throat. The gown was cut modestly enough, yet it generously revealed her exquisite shoulders and arms. A single band of black velvet held the bodice in place on the left shoulder, while on the right shoulder the support consisted of three such bands, each about an inch wide.

"That's the dress you wore that night on the—Auguste Victoria," I remarked.

"I wore it on the—Victoria Luise," she insisted, correctively.

"Why hide three inches of loveliness on the right arm, while hiding only one inch on the left?"

"Dressmaker's conceit," she answered, with a slight flush of embarrassment.

"To conceal a mark of vaccination?" I persisted, teasingly.

"Have you heard," she said, changing the subject thus abruptly, "that the stranger in the black mask is to be at the opera to-night?"

She asked this with an appearance of innocence that would have deceived any only save me. I felt that her air of frankness in speaking of the stranger, was assumed solely for the purpose of averting any possible suspicion that she and he were even acquainted. Surely Felipa was an adept in playing her mystifying game with me!

The Torture of Love

"How did you learn that the stranger will be there?" I asked.

"His only friend in the city is Larry Annesley, you know whom I mean, the editor of El Monitor, the leading newspaper here. And the Senor Larry told Senor del Treveno to-day that the stranger will attend the opera—in his mask, too. The whole city, it seems, is speculating as to his identity and his reason for masquerading."

"Why not ask Larry Annesley to tell you, Felipa, all about the stranger?" I suggested, vainly trying to conceal the bitterness I felt. For of course I did not believe Larry Annesley to be the stranger's "only friend in the city."

My love for Felipa had indeed become a torture. Torture because I believed our betrothal to be only a matter of convenience for her, to save her name with the Aztecs. Between her and her lover there [illegible] existed an understanding as to this betrothal, so that it formed no hindrance to the continuance of their own relations.

"Felipa," I said, as I took her in to dinner, "if you love the stranger, why not tell me so? If you do love him, why did you follow me into the Catacombs today to tell me"—

"Catacombs!" she exclaimed in astonishment. She stood still, disengaged her hand from my arm. "You say," she went on, in a tone of utter incredulity, "that I followed you into the Catacombs? Juan John! What do you mean? I have never—to-day nor any other time—been down in that Inferno."

I smiled. "Yes, I know, Felipa," I [illegible] "You did say 'I'll give you credit for your frankness—that your name was not Felipa—said it when you left me in the chamber of horrors. Oh, well if such things amuse you, have your way. But better be careful—or some day I will learn your real name."

The Stranger's House

We were taking our seats at the dinner table now; and Felipa, speaking to Don Juan [illegible] across the board, said:

"My father, did you see a ghost to-day in the Catacombs?"

"Only mummies, my daughter. The Senor John, however, insisted that he heard the rustle of a shroud, as of a spirit following us."

"Yes, my father," Felipa retorted. "The Senor Juan has discovered that he is a medium. He says he not only heard a spirit, but also talked to one, and that the spirit in question was—myself. It seems then, that while I spent the entire afternoon at the photographer's, my astral body roamed in the Catacombs."

Did she say "entire" afternoon? The shocking prevaricator! She did not go to the photographer's till late in the afternoon; no, not till after she met me in the Alameda, and that was after the Angelus. But I had no chance now to chastise her for her prevarication. For we were separated by the length of the table, she sitting at the upper end of the right of our host, and I at the lower end at the right of our hostess.

The del Trevenos had many guests at the dinner, but Felipa herself proved the merriest of the party. Was it because of her thoughts that soon she would again see the Black Mask?

"The Senor Annesley came into the bank this afternoon," observed our host. "He knows the stranger, but is chary of information. He admitted though that his masquerading friend is living in one of the prettiest houses in the city—that bungalow built by Leon Alvarado, owner of the Alvarado mines here. The stranger lives there with one servant. You all know the place—only private fountain in the city."

"Only fountain!" I cried, trying to retain my composure under the sudden rush of thoughts that were racking me. "What street?"

"Jesus del Monte."

My fork fell from my hand. I picked it up again and attacked a bit of chicken, viciously.

No wonder Felipa had declined my company, when I offered to go with her to the "photographer's studio!" She had gone straight to the abode of her lover. With my own eyes I had seen her enter that bungalow—in the street of Jesus del Monte.

I glanced at her now, dejectedly, in misery.

"You look, John," she said, "like Hamlet the melancholy."

"I sometimes think you are Ophelia the mad," I replied.

"Ophelia was a blonde," she retorted. "You are thinking of the Golden Senorita."

"That reminds me," I blurted, turning to Felipa's father. "Your daughter and I both saw the Senorita Alva in town this afternoon."

"That is strange," the Don replied. "Did not Diego say she left here——"

But he was interrupted by the impetuous Felipa who shook my arm and cried:

"John, John! I did not see the Senorita Alva. I have never seen her in my life. Father, forgive him. It is his American humor."

I looked at Felipa in blank amazement. Another denial. It was apparent that she did not wish the others at the table to know she had seen the glorious Alva. Felipa's game was truly too deep for me.

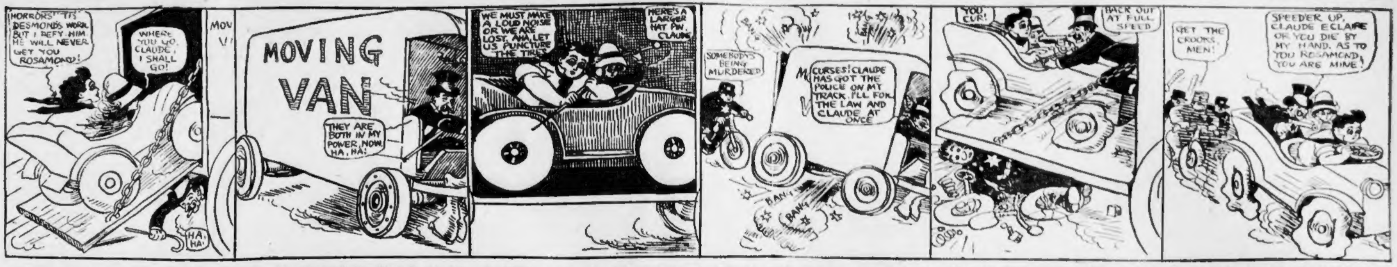
Desperate Desmond

A Continued Picture Drama of Love and Hate, with a Thrill in Its Every Picture



HORRORS! 'TIS DESMOND'S WORK. BUT I DEFY HIM. HE WILL NEVER GET YOU ROSAMOND!
WHERE YOU GO, CLAUDE, I SHALL GO!
HA, HA!
MOVING VAN
THEY ARE BOTH IN MY POWER NOW, HA, HA!
WE MUST MAKE A LOUD NOISE OR WE ARE LOST. AHA, LET US PUNCTURE THE TIRES
HERE'S A LARGER HAT PIN, CLAUDE
SOMEBODY'S BEING MURDERED
CURSES! CLAUDE HAS GOT THE POLICE ON MY TRACK. I'LL FOIL THE LAW AND CLAUDE AT ONCE
BANG
YOU CUR!
BACK OUT AT FULL SPEED
GET THE CROOKS, MEN!
SPEED'ER UP, CLAUDE ECLAIRE OR YOU DIE BY MY HAND. AS TO YOU ROSAMOND, YOU ARE MINE!

When they started out for their little automobile ride, Claude and Rosamond had no idea that their destination was the interior of a moving van. But then, very few people do know where they are going to land when they charter a buzz wagon. That's what makes the sport so fascinating.

Now that Desmond has them in the van, what is he going to do with them? Will he ship them to some out-of-the-way suburb, or will he put them in storage for a year or two? Leave it to Desperate Desmond. Whatever he does, it's bound to be something devilish. You can trust him for that.

If Claude could only find some way of giving the alarm. He has tried blowing the horn, but you can't attract anybody's attention that way. Ah! A sudden thought strikes him! He will puncture the tires. That ought to make noise enough to startle some cop from his dreams of promotion.

Claude's little scheme works beautifully. The cop hears the muffled reports and thinks that murder is being done. Mounting his gasoline bike, he gives chase. There hasn't been a murder on his beat for two weeks, and he's just hoping for excitement. It's a safe bet that he gets all he wants.

Didn't we tell you so? Desmond has dropped the tailboard of the van, swatting the cop on the dome. But do Claude and Rosamond escape his clutches? Not on your life! Desmond is right with them to the auto, and what's more, he has the drop on Claude Eclaire. And Desmond is quick on the trigger.

Poor Claude is now Desmond's chauffeur. He hasn't any license, but that doesn't worry him half so much as Desmond's gun. You point that kind of a cannon at a man and hes' going to obey orders, no matter how brave he is. But don't worry. Maybe the cop will catch them to-morrow.

The Manicure Lady Is Tired

The Burden of Letter Writing Weighs on Her

"THIS correspondence thing makes me tired," said the Manicure Lady. "Don't you think so yourself, George?"

"I don't know," said the Head Barber. "I ain't much on writing letters. The only folks I correspond with is the old folks back West. Now and then I want to collect a little kale, and I write something along the pleading order, such as 'Dear Uncle. I have here an article of great intrinsic value, to say nothing of the memories that are clustered around it. It is yours, in escrow, for eight iron men, otherwise known as eight dollars. That's the only correspondence I ever do."

"I agree with you, George," said the Manicure Lady. "Now take my case, for instance. I have several gentlemen friends that correspond with me, and now and then one of them writes a note that brings sunshine into my soul. He will tell me all about the soft lights and the murmuring music and the palms overhead, and finish up his poem letter with an invitation to go to some swell cafe, lunching.

"I ain't much of a correspondent, George, and when I read a letter like that over two or three times, I sort of quail about the best way to answer it. The best I can do is to take my pen in hand and say, 'Sure Mike.'"

Two Sets of Letters

"When I write letters," said the Head Barber, "I make them very short. I get letters from two sets, my friends and my creditors. The friends, when they write me, say that they would like to have me drop in for luncheon. The creditors, when they write, say they would like to have me drop in and settle. I always write to my friends and say 'Sure!' and my creditors get their little notes, 'Not so sure.'"

"I thought you said you never wrote no letters at all," said the Manicure Lady. "I mean, except the things that you wrote to the old folks out West. Anyhow, what I started out to tell you was about the correspondence that makes me tired. You see, George, I am proposed to most of the time, and that makes my mail very heavy. Now, kid, I want you to listen to this letter that I grabbed out of the mail box this morning before I left our humble abode. I want you to hear it all through, and then I want you to tell me what you think I ought to write for an answer. Listen!

"Dear Little Girl—The first time that I met you was at the Fireman's Ball. You was waltzing with a hook and ladder man, and as you swung around the corner of the room in which I was sitting, I saw, or thought I saw, a look of adoration in them violet eyes of yours. Dearest, I am not a hook and ladder man. I am only a druggist and a druggist has no future worth speaking of. But I want you, I want you. You must be mine. Now, George, how would you answer a letter like that?"

"I never figured on being a druggist's bride," replied the Head Barber, "so I ain't quite in a position to answer you. What was some of the other letters you got?"

"I ain't got the heart nor the nerve to tell you," said the Manicure lady. "But I know I ain't the only one. Take poor brother Wilfred, for instance, with all the mass of correspondence he has to handle. He was showing some of it to me yesterday. The first letter that he showed to me was from a firm named Bradley & Sons, Attorneys. They said something about insisting upon immediate payment, and——"

"Don't go any further," said the Head Barber. "I know them kind of letters."

Sam Always Had an Excuse--By Kennett Harris

"SEEMS like some of you fellers would be at work, with corn about ripe an' cotton ready to pick, remarked the storekeeper to the circle.

"I've got a misery in my back," explained Eben Baxter. "It don't hurt me none as long as I'm a-sittin' still, but as sure as I go to movin' around or stoopin' over, it ketches me with a crick 'at makes me holler."

"I ain't got no corn nor no cotton," said Sol Barker. "If I had, I sure would be tendin' to 'em. I'll be right busy as soon as them three bolts o' cloth gets here from St. Joe, though. I was expectin' 'em to be here yest'd'y mornin'."

"I came in for a pair o' shuckin' gloves," offered Newt Tabbs. "I reckon Uncle Jimmy's afraid o' sunstroke."

Old Man Somarindyk grunted something about Smart Alecks.

"The trouble with me is that my woman's too ambitious," said Washington Hancock. "If she'd quit workin', I might start in, as shif'less as I be, but I'm like Parker's nigh ox: if the off critter's willin' to do all the pullin', I'm willin' she should. That's what I call a well-matched team."

Just Like Sam Cleghorn

"There's more truth than po'try on that," said Old Man Somarindyk.

"What's the use o' makin' excuses?" said Hancock. "When I hear a feller for everlastin' tellin' why he done this or didn't do that, it allus makes me think of Sam Cleghorn. Sam never made a mistake or a mistake in his life but he'd tell you just how come he made it. Preacher Hotchkiss says to Sam one time 'Samuel,' says he, 'if you don't cure your se'f of this habit of explainin' things, you're a-goin' to delay proceedin's on Jedgment Day like all-get-out.'

"That was the time he ketched Sam a-cussin' beens he'd scalded his mouth with some hot soup at Elkins's tavern.

"'Elder,' says Sam, 'you know I ain't a profane or blasphemious man. You never heard me say a word that wasn't fittin' an' proper to say yit.'

"'I reckon you 'most gin'rally see me a-comin' afore I get clost enough to hear,' says Preacher Hotchkiss.

"'It was this-a-way,' says Sam. 'I've be'n buildin' fence with Rodney Peterson all last week, an' you know what Rodney is, Elder, even when things go slick an' smooth. Well, sir, Rod smashed the same thumb twice inside o' five minutes with the hammer one day, an' another time a breachy bull hooked down three panels he'd just got up an' he let a white oak rail drap on his toes. Well' I was jest a-thinkin' o' what he'd said when I swallered that soup an' accidently done my thinkin' out loud, bein' discombobulated, so to speak. What St. Paul says about evil communications a-corruptin' good manners is as true as anythin', but I nachally had to he'p Rod with his fence. It wouldn't have ben actin' like a Christian not to, so I reckon I ain't to blame.'

The Neighbor's Dog

"He wasn't never to blame for nothin', Sam wasn't. The reason he never washed his face was his well had been showin' signs o' dryin' up an' his woman needed jest about so much water around the house anyway, an' there was the stock needed it, too, so it seemed to him it would be actin' like a hawg to put his own wishes an' needcessities fust. Co'se he could have gone down to the branch, but that took time that he felt it his dooty to spend makin' a livin' for his fam'ly.

"Oncet in a while Sam lied, but that didn't make him a liar, not by no means. 'Co'din' to him, nobuddy but a plumb fool told the truth all the time, 'thout usin' jedgment with regard to circumstances. I seen him shoot a neighbor's dawg one time an' five minutes later swear he hadn't laid eyes on the beast for a week. 'If I'd told Hank I'd killed his pup, he'd have got mad an' like as not he'd have pulled a knife on me, an' what kind of a business would that have been?' he says. 'As it is, we're good friends an' that's the way to be. Dwellin' together in peace an' concord as the sayin' is. As fur's the dawg's concerned, I've been a-missin' chickens an' ever' time I come nigh him, he'd show his teeth an' growl. Co'se I might have let him bite me an' got hydrophoby, but then there was the resk of me bitin' somebuddy else an' givin' it to them, which I didn't think would be jestified.'

"Sam uster get drunk right often, but he had reason to get drunk. He had a right smart trouble, one way an' another, an' if he stayed sober, he got to studyin' about it till he wasn't fittin' company for nobuddy, he felt so mean. On the other hand, when he got 'est about so full, he was as kind as a kitten an' as full o' fun an' frolic—less'n he took enough to make him ugly. One o' them times, he took an ax an' brained his wife an' fam'ly an' then set fire to the house; but he didn't lay it to the licker he'd took. The lawyer he'd got to defend him tol' him that wasn't considered a good excuse."

Advocated a Jail Sentence

"I s'pose they made it temp'ry insanity," guessed the storekeeper.

"No it was justifiable homicide," replied Hancock. "Seems like that woman of his hed been puttin' too much saleratus in her biscuit right along ever since they was married. Sam begged an' implored of her with tears in his eyes, time an' time ag'in, to quit it, but she was mulish an' sot, the way wimmen get, an' inhumanly an' ag'in the peace and dignity of the State of Missouri, an' the night of the difficulty them biscuits was yaller as mustard."

"All the same, he done wrong takin' an ax to her," said Baker, shaking his head. "If he'd set her down on top of the hot stove or even give her a good whalin' with a blacksnake, it would have been a-plenty. He'd ought to get a jail sentence, anyway."

The Travel-Stained Pilgrim

A SHORT STORY

"CAN you accommodate me with supper and a night's lodging?" asked the travel-stained pilgrim.

"I'd like to do it mighty well, stranger," replied the farmer, "for I believe in the golden rule, and stand for it strong whenever I can. There's nothing I'd like better than to ask you into the house and to invite you to eat everything in sight, and have a good time generally. But a man has to consider his wife, you know, and you really wouldn't sleep a wink until morning. It's really ridiculous how set she is against strangers, but she isn't to blame for it, poor soul. When she was a young girl her father entertained a stranger over night, and she happened to wake up along about 2 o'clock in the morning. There was a full moon and everything was as bright as day, and she happened to look up toward the roof of the left wing, and what did she see but that stranger walking along the eaves trough, about forty feet from the ground! It was a miracle he didn't fall and break his neck. He was one of those somnambulists you've heard tell of. Well, sir, ever since that time my wife has been so set against strangers that she simply can't sleep if there's one in the house."

The Barn Would Do

"I'd be perfectly willing to sleep in the barn," said the weary stranger. "Any old place will do, if I can lie down and rest."

"I know how you feel, mister," replied the farmer, cordially. "I've been there myself. But one must consider his wife's feelings. His first duty is to the woman who forsook her kindred to share his fortunes, for better or for worse, and I'm sorry to say that my wife is terribly set against the idea of having a stranger sleeping in the barn. Why, sir, if you went to sleep there, that poor woman would pass the night in agony. Ever since Matthewson's barn burned down, eight years ago, and a bushel basket full of human bones was found in the ashes, my wife simply loses all control of herself and has the hysterics if anybody mentions sleeping in the barn. She'd take it for granted that I'd have to go out with a basket in the morning and rake around in the ashes to find enough of you for decent burial."

A Sad Experience

"Well, if you can let me have a supper, maybe I can find a place to sleep. I have the money to pay for it."

"Don't mention money, stranger, in such a connection. I hope the day will never come when I consent to accept money for feeding a famishing traveller. I've always looked on hospitality as a sort of sacred privilege and if I was living here alone I'd have had you seated at my table before now. But a married man simply must have some respect for his wife's opinions. She is always ready to sacrifice anything—even life itself—for him, and the least he can do is to show a proper respect.

"It's a most unfortunate thing, but my wife is bitterly set against having strangers eating at our table. You see, several years ago we extended our hospitality to a stranger, who said he had the money to pay, and while he was eating he had a fit and upset the table and broke all the dishes and bit a piece out of my wife's grandfather's leg. He gave my wife a $5 bill to pay the damage, but it was a counterfeit."

NEW ARABIAN NIGHTS

The Bohemian Adventures of Prince Florizel

By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON

THE SUICIDE CLUB.

Story of the Young Man with the Cream Tarts—In Five Instalments

SYNOPSIS

PRINCE FLORIZEL of Bohemia and his master of horse, Colonel Geraldine, seek adventure in the slums of London. They go incognito and none of the men whom they meet knows they are any different than they represent themselves.

In one of the barrooms in which they take shelter from a March storm they meet a young man who is offering cream tarts from a tray carried by two servants to every one he meets. When a tart is refused, the young man makes an elaborate bow and eats it himself.

The Prince and Colonel Geraldine scrape acquaintance with him and later he introduces them to the president of the Suicide Club. This officer deems them worthy to join the club and, after taking oath to obey the rules of the club implicitly, they are admitted to the clubrooms.

The victim for death and the instrument of death are chosen. The victim is a Mr. Malthus and the instrument is the young man of the cream tarts.

In the next morning's paper is an account of the accidental death of Mr. Malthus and the Colonel asks the Prince to remain away from the club. When he cannot secure his promise Colonel Geraldine puts his affairs in order and he, with the Prince, returns to the club the next night. They meet the young man of the cream tarts, who is filled with remorse over his deed. He says that he hopes he will be the victim selected that night.

Fifth Instalment.

A FEW more members dropped in as the evening went on, but the club did not muster more than a devil's dozen when they took their places at the table. The prince was again conscious of a certain joy in his alarms; but he was astonished to see Geraldine so much more self-possessed than on the night before.

"It is extraordinary," thought the Prince, "that a will, made or unmade, should so greatly influence a young man's spirit."

Three times the cards went all round the table, and neither of the marked cards had yet fallen from his hand.

The excitement, as he had begun the fourth distribution, was overwhelming. There were just cards enough to go once more entirely round.

The prince, who sat second from the dealer's left, would receive, in the reverse mode of dealing, practiced at the club, the second last card. The third player turned up a black ace—it was the ace of clubs. The next received a diamond, the next a heart, and so on; but the ace of spades was still undelivered. At last, Geraldine, who sat upon the prince's left, turned his card; it was an ace, but the ace of hearts.

When Prince Florizel saw his fate upon the table in front of him, his heart stood still. He was a brave man, but the sweat poured off his face. There were exactly fifty chances out of a hundred that he was doomed. He reversed the card; it was the ace of spades.

A loud roaring filled his brain, and the table swam before his eyes. He heard the player on his right break into a fit of laughter that sounded between mirth and disappointment; he saw the company rapidly dispersing, but his mind was full of other thoughts.

He recognized how foolish, how criminal, had been his conduct. In perfect health, in the prime of his years, the heir to a throne, he had gambled away his future and that of a brave and loyal country. "God," he cried, "God forgive me!" And with that, the confusion of his senses passed away, and he regained his self-possession in a moment.

To his surprise, Geraldine had disappeared. There was no one in the cardroom but his destined butcher consulting with the president, and the young man of the cream tarts, who slipped up to the prince and whispered in his ear:

"I would give a million, if I had it, for your luck."

His highness could not help reflecting, as the young man departed, that he would have sold his opportunity for a much more moderate sum.

The whispered conference now came to an end. The holder of the ace of clubs left the room with a look of intelligence, and the president, approaching the unfortunate prince, proffered his hand.

"I am pleased to have you, sir," said he, "and pleased to have been in a position to do you this trifling service. At least you cannot complain of delay. On the second evening—what a stroke of luck!"

The prince endeavored in vain to articulate something in response, but his mouth was dry and his tongue seemed paralyzed.

"You feel a little sickish?" asked the president, with some show of solicitude. "Most gentlemen do. Will you take a little brandy?"

The prince signified in the affirmative, and the other immediately filled some of the spirit into a tumbler.

"Poor old Malthy!" ejaculated the president, as the prince drained the glass. "He drank near upon a pint, and little enough good it seemed to do him!"

"I am more amenable to treatment," said the prince, a good deal revived. "I am my own man again at once, as you perceive. And so, let me ask you, what are my directions?"

"You will proceed along the Strand in the direction of the city, and on the left-hand pavement, until you meet the gentleman who has just left the room. He will continue your instructions, and him you will have the kindness to obey; the authority of the club is vested in his person for the night. And now," added the president, "I wish you a pleasant walk."

Florizel acknowledged the salutation rather awkwardly, and took his leave. He passed through the smoking room, where the bulk of the players were still consuming champagne, some of which he had himself ordered and paid for; and he was surprised to find himself cursing them in his heart.

He put on his hat and great coat in the cabinet, and selected his umbrella from a corner.

The familiarity of these acts, and the thought that he was about them for the last time, betrayed him into a fit of laughter which sounded unpleasantly in his ears. He conceived a reluctance to leave the cabinet, and turned instead to the window. The sight of the lamps and the darkness recalled him to himself.

"Come, come, I must be a man," he thought, "and tear myself away."

At the corner of Box Court three men fell upon Prince Florizel and he was unceremoniously thrust into a carriage, which at once drove rapidly away. There was already an occupant.

"Will your highness pardon my zeal?" said a well-known voice.

The prince threw himself upon the Colonel's neck in a passion of relief.

"How can I ever thank you?" he cried. "And how was this effected?"

Although he had been willing to march upon his doom, he was overjoyed to yield to friendly violence, and return once more to life and hope.

"You can thank me effectually enough," replied the Colonel, "by avoiding all such dangers in the future. And, as for your second question, all has been managed by the simplest means.

"I arranged this afternoon with a celebrated detective. Secrecy has been promised and paid for. Your own servants have been principally engaged in the affair. The house in Box Court has been surrounded since nightfall, and this, which is one of your own carriages, has been awaiting you for nearly an hour."

"And the miserable creature who was to have slain me—what of him?" inquired the prince.

"He was pinioned as he left the club," replied the colonel, "and now awaits your sentence at the palace, where he will soon be joined by his accomplices."

"Geraldine," said the prince, "you have saved me against my explicit orders, and you have done well. I owe you not only my life, but a lesson; and I should be unworthy of my rank if I did not show myself grateful to my teacher. Let it be yours to choose the manner."

There was a pause, during which the carriage continued to speed through the streets, and the two men were each buried in his own reflections. The silence was broken by Colonel Geraldine.

"Your highness," said he, "has by this time a considerable body of prisoners. There is at least one criminal among the number to whom justice should be dealt. Our oath forbids us all recourse to law; and discretion would forbid it equally if the oath were loosened. May I inquire your highness' intention?"

"It is decided," answered Florizel; "the president must fall in a duel. It only remains to choose his adversary."

"Your highness has permitted me to name my own recompense," said the colonel. "Will he permit me to ask the appointment of my brother? It is an honorable post, but I dare assure your highness that the lad will acquit himself with credit."

"You ask me an ungracious favor," said the prince, "but I must refuse you nothing."

The colonel kissed his hand with the greatest affection; and at that moment the carriage rolled under the archway of the prince's splendid residence.

An hour after, Florizel in his official robes, and covered with all the orders of Bohemia, received the members of the Suicide Club.

"Foolish and wicked men," said he, "as many of you as have been driven into this strait by the lack of fortune shall have employment and remuneration from my officers. Those who suffer under a sense of guilt must have recourse to a higher and more generous potentate than I.

"I feel pity for you, deeper than you can imagine; to-morrow you shall tell me your stories; and as you answer more frankly, I shall be the more able to remedy your misfortunes.

"As for you," he added, turning to the president, "I should only offend a person of your parts by any offer of assistance, but I have instead a piece of diversion to propose to you. Here," laying his hand on the shoulder of Colonel Geraldine's young brother, "is an officer of mine who desires to make a little tour upon the Continent, and I ask you, as a favor, to accompany him on this excursion.

"Do you," he went on, changing his tone, "do you shoot well with the pistol? Because you may have need of that accomplishment. When two men go traveling together, it is best to be prepared for all. Let me add that, if by any chance you should lose young Mr. Geraldine on the way, I shall always have another member of my household to place at your disposal; and I am known, Mr. President, to have long eyesight and as long an arm."

With these words, said with much sternness, the Prince concluded his address.

Next morning the members of the club were suitably provided for by his munificence, and the president set forth upon his travels, under the supervision of Mr. Geraldine and a pair of faithful and adroit lackeys, well trained in the Prince's household.

Not content with this, discreet agents were put in possession of the house of Box Court, and all letters of visitors for the Suicide Club or its officials were to be examined by Prince Florizel in person.

Here (says my Arabian author) ends the story of "the young man with the cream tarts," who is now a comfortable householder in Wigmore street, Cavendish Square. The number, for obvious reasons, I suppress. Those who care to pursue the adventures of Prince Florizel and the President of the Suicide Club may read "the history of the physician and the Saratoga trunk."

THE SUNDAY AMERICAN

STOCKS DANCE UP, THEN DOWN

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Early trading in Wall street to-day was marked by extreme quiet, with but few stocks showing gains. Trading at times seemed to be at a standstill, while on several occasions the floor was practically deserted. Traders were in an uncertain condition of mind.

A slight splurge of strength was displayed in New York Central early in the day, when it jumped five-eighths over closing. This was followed by a reaction, which brought this stock back to closing. New York Central's irregularity followed reports from Washington of the discovery by the Interstate Commerce Commission of padding expense accounts.

The Hill stocks, particularly Great Northern preferred and Northern Pacific, displayed early signs of strength, both showing a gain of one-eighth. A few minutes later these gains were wiped out. Small gains were exhibited early in Amalgamated Copper.

Inter-Metropolitan and Chesapeake & Ohio, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific opened unchanged. Reading moved up ⅛, but this gain was reduced to ⅛. Canadian Pacific dropped ⅜ of a point during the first hour, but later recovered a half.

Trading on the curb was moderately active, with prices irregular.

American stocks in London were fairly firm, although exceedingly inactive. Quotations were about ⅛ above yesterday's close. Consols were a shade firmer while the copper stocks were irregular, with no general trend.

RUNAWAY GIRL SENDS WARD "I'M MARRIED"

Thomas F. [illegible], of No. 24 Bradstreet avenue, Mt. Hope, has just learned that his daughter Mabel, who disappeared from home, Sunday, November 6, was happily married to W. G. True, a young man whom the girl met about six weeks before her disappearance. The news reached the father in a letter mailed from Philadelphia. It read: "I arrived in Philadelphia all right. I was married in New York Monday, November 7, at 10 o'clock. Will write you later." The letter was signed, "Your loving daughter, Mabel."

BOSTON MAN NEW HEAD OF K. OF L.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Demand for tariff revision will be made to the coming session of Congress by the Knights of Labor of America, which concluded its 34th annual convention here. The plan adopted is to have a circular on the desk of each Congressman at the opening of the next session, containing a copy of the resolutions adopted to-day. Thomas H. Canning, Boston, was elected general master workman.

EACH NEW BABY REDUCES RENT

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Every time a child is born to a tenant in the Honeymoon Flats in Oakdale avenue, $5 is taken off that month's rent. The landlord is Allan B. [illegible], and he not only wants people with children to occupy the apartments but is always devising schemes for encouraging anti-race suicide.

JILTED FOR SISTER, SUES FOR $5,000

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 18.—Miss Jessie McCoy, twenty, has sued A. L. Chittenden, forty-three, for $5,000 for breach of promise. The unusual feature of the proceeding is that the defendant recently married Miss Fannie McCoy, an older sister of the plaintiff. He had been engaged to both sisters, and finally picked the older.

SAYS HE INHERITED CRIMINAL INSTINCT

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 18.—Leroy Roush of Pittsburg, when arraigned here on charges of burglary and forgery, made the novel plea of "inherited dishonesty." "I was drinking," he said. "My grandfather when drinking would commit crimes unwittingly, and I have inherited the tendency."

$3.50 & $4.00 SHOES

The benefits of free hides, which apply principally to sole leather, and the reduced tariff on sole leather, now enables me to give the wearer more value for his money, better and longer wearing $3.50 and $4.00 shoes than I could give previous to the tariff revision.

DO You Realize that my shoes have been the standard for over thirty years, that I make and sell more $3.50 and $4.00 shoes than any other manufacturer in the U. S., and that Dollar for Dollar, I Guarantee My Shoes to hold their shape, look and fit better, and wear longer than any other $3.50 or $4.00 shoes you can buy?

Quality counts. It has made my shoes The Leaders of the World.

For Fall and Winter Wear, my immense stock includes the latest and best styles in every size and width, especially in Young Men's Lasts, and my stores also carry at all times the most complete assortment of the more substantial styles, such as have made W. L. Douglas shoes a household word everywhere.

You will be pleased when you buy my shoes because of the fit and appearance, and when it comes time for you to purchase another pair, you will be more than pleased because the last ones wore so well, and gave you so much comfort.

GREAT EDUCATIONAL COMPETITION

SEND THIS ENROLLMENT IN TO-DAY

I desire to enroll as a contestant in the Boston American Educational Competition, and certify that I am not over 18 years of age. I agree that any false statement as to my age may be sufficient cause to debar me from the contest and forfeit any prize I may win.

Name ....

Street and No. ....

City and State ....

I certify that the above contestant is not over 18 years of age.

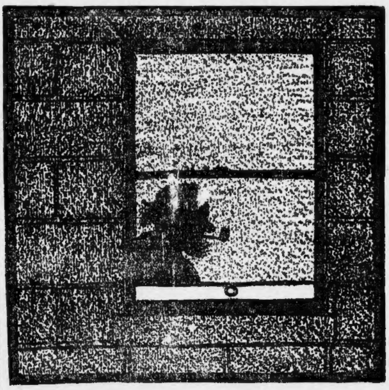
SPECIAL NOTICE

Any boy or girl can enter this contest NOW by clipping out and filling in the ENROLLMENT blank printed above and sending same to the Educational Contest Director, Boston American.

Contestants who enter now should try to get the back numbers of the American, either Daily or Sunday, containing the pictures already printed, from their newsdealer. If he cannot supply you, write to the Educational Contest Director and the puzzle pictures already printed will be sent to you, together with full information of a special prize offer to ENROLLED contestants.

It is not too late to enter this contest NOW. Enter NOW by clipping out the ENROLLMENT blank above and sending same at once to the Educational Contest Director, properly filled in. This will bring you full information and will enable you to start at once in the race for the $2,000 cash prizes.

TO-DAY'S PICTURE



What plant does this picture represent?

Name of what plant ....

Contestant's name ....

No. 12. Street address ....

City ....

Remember, girls and boys, do NOT send in your lists until you have the complete set of 77. You can send in as many answers as you please to each picture, but you must use a separate coupon for each answer.

RULES FOR THE CONTEST

1. Fill out the blank with your own name and address and have it indorsed by your teacher or some reputable citizen and mail to the Education Contest Editor Boston American. The contest is open to every boy and girl in Boston and New England eighteen years of age or under.

2. Do not send in your answers every day. Keep them until you have solved the entire seventy-seven charades, and then send them in a week after the last picture appears.

3. You can give as many answers as you please to each picture, but each answer must be written on a different coupon.

4. The prizes will be awarded for the most correct solutions upon the fewest coupons. The highest possible score is seventy-seven answers for seventy-seven coupons. But one point will be scored for a correct answer to each picture, so don't send in more than one coupon containing the same answer.

5. The first prize will be $500 in cash for the greatest number of correct solutions. The second will be $200, the third $150 and then seventy-six other prizes, making a total of $2,000.

6. In the event of two or more persons having the same number of correct answers, the person using the smallest number of extra coupons will be declared winner. In the event of two persons having the same number of correct answers and using the same number of coupons, the person whose set of answers is most neatly prepared in the opinion of the editor will receive the cash prize in each case.

Contestants may send in as many answers as they may choose to any of the puzzle pictures, but all answers must be on coupons clipped from the BOSTON AMERICAN.

7. There will be seventy-seven pictures published, one each day of publication, daily and Sunday. All you have to do is to tell what each picture charade represents, giving the name of the city, town, river, song, or whatever it may be.

8. Preference will not be given to early list, but all must be sent in within one week after the last picture appears.

9. Awards will be made by the Contest Editor, whose rulings and decisions shall be final. The correct answers to the series of pictures will be filed with the First National Bank of Boston a week previous to the close of the contest.

10. A book containing the list from which the titles of the picture charades are selected will be ready early next week. Send ten cents to the Boston American Educational Contest Editor to cover cost and postage, and a booklet will be sent you. If you find your answer in the list it is possible that you may have the right one. If it is not in the list you must try again, for all the correct answers are contained in the booklet.

The following cities and towns comprise Greater Boston:

Boston, Arlington, Belmont, Braintree, Brookline, Cambridge, Canton, Chelsea, Cohasset, Dedham, Dover, Everett, Hingham, Hull, Hyde Park, Lexington, Lynn, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Milton, Nahant, Needham, Newton, Quincy, Revere, Saugus, Somerville, Stoneham, Swampscott, Wakefield, Waltham, Watertown, Wellesley, Weston, Westwood, Weymouth, Winchester, Winthrop, Woburn.

Children of BOSTON AMERICAN employes only are barred from competing.

AMERICAN WANT "ADS" BRING QUICK RESULTS

CONTEST STILL OPEN TO ALL

Many letters have been received at this office inquiring whether it is too late to start in the Educational Contest. We wish to notify every one that any boy or girl in New England can enter this contest NOW. All that is necessary to do is to clip the enrollment blank from the daily or Sunday AMERICAN, properly fill it in, and mail it to the Educational Contest Director, BOSTON AMERICAN.

If you have not got the back picture puzzles, which have already been printed from day to day in the AMERICAN, go to your newsdealer, and if he cannot supply you with these back dates, all you will have to do will be to write to the Educational Contest Director and tell him that you are unable to secure the back dates from your newsdealer, and he will send you from this office the picture puzzles which have been printed from the first day of the contest. This will give every one who has not entered a splendid chance to get in this contest at once and compete for the $2,000 in cash prizes.

If you are in doubt on any subject, write to the Educational Contest Director, and your letter will be promptly answered.

Do not miss this chance to get $500 in cash for yourself, through carelessness or delay. Let your motto be "Do it now," and you may be $500 richer at the end of the contest.

Remember, boys and girls, get your enrollments in to-day.

Horses and Carriages.

$75 Buys Lillian McGregor.
THIS is one of the grandest family, road or brush mares that is for sale to-day in New England, she is of a beautiful bay color, was foaled in 1902, weighs about 1,065 or 1,075 lbs., is upheaded and very stylish, is open gaited and trots all the time, will drive with open or closed bridle, road, freely 10 miles per hour, long mane and tail, wear no boots of any kind; she has no bunches and has never taken a lame step since I have owned her; her breeding cannot be beaten, as she is sired by a son of the great Robert McGregor, the sire of Cresceus and many other fast horses; her dam is of Wilkes breed; this mare was trained when she was 5 years old and stepped 3 miles better than 2:19; she is a grand sleigh mare and trotted halves in 1:04½ and 1:05 last Winter, and I think if she was trained she could trot better than 2:15; she is safe for a woman to drive with perfect safety, as she is fearless of all objects on the road; I have her papers if anyone wants them; she is worth $250 to anyone looking for such an animal, and the only reason I am selling her, I do not care to drive this Winter; I also have a carriage, harness and speed sleigh, blankets, etc.; I will sell for $30 to the purchaser of the mare. For further particulars, call at my residence, 202 West Springfield st., Boston, MR. PAUL, off Tremont st.; all Tremont st. cars from North or South stations pass the street; ask the conductor to leave you off at West Springfield st.

$115 FOR ALL
HORSE,
CARRIAGE, SLEIGH AND ALL STABLE GOODS BEEN USED WITH THIS OUTFIT
BLOOD BAY HORSE, weighs about 1,100, age 8, sound in every way, safe for a lady to harness or drive, very stylish, can road 10 miles an hour and pull a large load, will stand without tying and is fearless of all objects, including automobiles; also nice custom-made harness and elegant carriage and nice sleigh; also blankets, robes and foot mats and all the stable goods been used with this outfit; the only reason for selling this property is that I have purchased an automobile, and I trust that some gentleman or lady in search of a first-class team for farm, family or business use will purchase it, as it is in every way as represented, and I will allow a trial of 2 weeks to test it in every way; this outfit is for sale by a private party and horse must have a good home; all this property complete for $115, or will sell horse separate to go into country. Call at stable, 1,233 Columbus av., Roxbury Crossing; easy to find; ask any car conductor in Boston and he will direct you; most all cars go to Roxbury Crossing. P. S. Ask to see the doctor's outfit.

MUST BE SOLD AT ONCE.
AT A SACRIFICE, $100.
MY BAY HORSE, 8 years old, weighs 1,075 lbs., road 10 miles an hour, is fat and pretty, with long tail and mane, is fearless of all known objects and safe for anybody to harness or drive; also my rubber-tired buggy, in perfect condition, built by French, and one 2-seated carriage, in perfect condition, one rubber-trimmed harness, only been used the past season; also blanket, robes, whip and all stable utensils; the outfit cost 1 year ago $385; the only reason for selling so low is that I have purchased an automobile; now, anybody looking for a first-class outfit will do well by calling at private stable, rear of 663 Mass. av.; take elevated train from North or South station to Northampton st., or any Washington st. surface car, and it will pass Mass. av.; I will allow 2 weeks' trial to any reasonable party. P. S.—Will not sell to dealers, as I want the horse to have as good care as it received in my hands. Tel. 3254-L Roxbury; I will sell my cutter sleigh for $10.

A FEW PEOPLE DON'T USE AMERICAN WANT ADS

For the same reason that modern methods were once scoffed at by our forefathers, yet, in spite of prejudice, progress has its way. The successful majority employ the "WANT AD WAY" to secure tenants, or buyers, or help, or employment. They employ the AMERICAN, realizing that it is the only paper which will carry their message to nearly all of the people.

The People Desire and Need a Parcels Post

On December 4, 1905, in the first session of the Fifty-ninth Congress, Mr. Hearst introduced a bill providing for a Parcels Post. The limit of length for parcels to be carried in the mails was 3½ feet, and the limit of length and girth combined was six feet.

Since 1905 the Parcels Post has been earnestly advocated by the Hearst newspapers, and is now demanded by the great body of the American people.

The Farmers' Union, three million strong, is memorializing Congress for a Parcels Post. The American Society of Equity, with 900,000 members, is joining in this appeal. One hundred and eighty-seven industrial and commercial organizations have petitioned for the bill.

Only the express companies and a small minority of interested parties are opposed.

And why not have a Parcels Post?

We have on one side of this column an illustration of a modern express wagon and upon the other side a picture of the average vehicle in which UNCLE SAM'S mail carriers transport the mail over the rural routes.

It will be observed that the express wagon is piled to the top with parcels and packages, and utilizes every inch of space to the extent of its carrying capacity.

The Government's rural mail carriers furnish a horse and vehicle, too, for delivery. On most of the routes there is carried a mere satchel of mail, and on few of the rural routes would the mail matter fill a wheelbarrow.

The horse and the wagon have little to carry, and both space and power paid for by the Government are wasted.

Why should not the Government fill up the vacant space in its improved rural mail wagons and use the power of the horses to carry parcels and packages to the plain people in the country?

The convenience and comfort that a Parcels Post would be to the people outside the cities cannot be overestimated. The whole progressive spirit of a Government that is everywhere entering into the life and happiness of its people demands this essential addition to industrial and agricultural life.

Christmas Is Coming; Have You Shopped?

Begin Buying Your Presents Now and Save Money, Time, Health and Temper

Do you realize that Christmas is coming fast?

Have you thought about the presents you are going to give this year?

Have you made out a little list of those particular people you wish to remember on this occasion?

If you have not, we would suggest that you take up the matter at once and give it your personal attention now.

Christmas shopping is the most exhausting, terrifying and unnecessary thing civilized people do. The great majority wait until the last week and then jam the stores, fighting, struggling, losing tempers, clothes, health and happiness in the mad battle for Christmas purchases.

When these are finally secured and brought home they are only too often found to be inferior in quality, damaged and disappointing, but it is too late to exchange them and you are dissatisfied with what you have bought; those you make presents to are disappointed in what they receive. On the whole, you find your gift giving expensive and unsatisfactory and you hold up your hand and swear, "Never again."

Consult the advertisements of Boston merchants in the Boston American. Make up your list early and confine it to those whom you feel obliged to remember. Don't try to be a universal Santa Claus. Cut the list down carefully and then go out and begin doing your shopping at once.

Don't wait for to-morrow or next week. Do it now.

You will find that all the big stores are ready for you now with Christmas displays. Never have the shops been so beautiful, so alluring, so irresistible. Go about your shopping leisurely, and buy only the best. A small object of real merit is much more acceptable than a more showy one of less intrinsic merit.

Don't try to spend more than your means permit.

It is a poor friendship that plunges you into debt for the sake of making a lot of presents that people will often regret receiving because they feel under the obligation of returning the courtesy.

But, above all, don't wait until the last moment to shop.

You can do it in comfort now. Later on your clothes, your tempers, your pocketbooks and your health will suffer, if you have to spend hours fighting the shopping mobs.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

THAT PINOCHLE CONTROVERSY

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

In your paper recently you published a claim of Mr. Val Trainor that he held a large pinochle hand in a four-handed game. He gives the names of the four players, the scorekeeper and two witnesses. I would like to ask these gentlemen, or any member of the White Rats Club, how it is possible for a man to hold the hand he claims.

There are only forty-eight cards in a pinochle deck, being dealt out equally, twelve to each player. The hand he mentions necessitates fifteen cards, viz.: Eight aces, the ten, king, two queens, Jack of Spades and two Jacks of Diamonds—fifteen cards. If four men sat in the game and only three played, they received sixteen cards each, and he did not meld every card in his hand, as he claims.

Perhaps the White Rats Club plays with more cards than the people of Jamaica Plain do. If so, I would gladly know how many they use. Thanking you for any information I may receive by you publishing this.

WORK-HORSE FUND NEEDED

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

The Boston Work-Horse Parade Association makes an earnest appeal for funds with which to carry on its activities this Winter. Our work is an all-the-year-round one, and we are anxious to benefit the horse which never appears in the parades as well as the horse which does appear there. For this purpose the directors wish to continue the course of free lectures to owners, drivers and grooms; to hold conferences on shoeing, feeding and other like subjects; to employ an agent to assist the poorer class of horse owners; to continue the system of stable inspection, with prizes for owners, foremen and night men; and, if possible, to establish a small stable in the worst part of the city, where horses can be received for free treatment and where dogs and cats could be received and transferred to the Animal Rescue Leagues.

Contributions may be sent to the treasurer, J. Atwood, 3d, City Hall.

HENRY C. MERWIN, President.

PRICE OF MEAT GOING DOWN
PRICE OF MEAT GOING DOWN

The ringing of the morning clock no longer does the senses shock,
Nor do we curse its peal with sullen frown.
For, as it rings it seems to say—"Ting-ling, Hurrah!
Ding-ding, Hurray!
Ding-ding—the price of meat is going down."

We grab the coal-hod with a shout and as the coals come tumbling out
And fall with merry clatter on the grate,
They chatter, as they rattle past: "The price of meat is less at last—
Yes—steak is two cents less a pound to date."

"Chug-chug, chug-chug—less cost—less cost" with merry sound;
And, as the frisky bacon fat spurts up it makes a spitter-spat
That sounds like—"Zip-zip!—two cents off the round."

And so all through the daily moil, the common, homely task and toil,
To cook, to sweep, to make the household neat,
The housewife wends a smiling way for meat is going down to-day

He Writes About Pa's Great Speech

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

I SAY to you, ladies & gentlemen, that the only way in which we may preeserve the harmony of the hoam is to be sweet & kind to those who love us most, to utter no unkind word to think no unkind thought—From Pa's speech beefoar the Happy Hoam Society.

Pa went to a meeting last nite & it was a meeting that Pa dident want to go to at all. It was a meeting of the Happy Hoam Society, & nearly all of the ladies wich was present was friends of Ma, but nobody thare new Pa.

I wud a whole lot rather go to a meeting of the city council, Pa sed, but if I must go, I suppose I must. So Pa went, & this is one of the things he sed, the thing wich I beegan my story with.

Pa sed a lot of other nise things about the ladies, too. He sed, Ladies & gentlemen, the moost butiful thing in all this wurld, next to a butiful lady, is a butiful disposishun. Many a time & oft, Pa sed, I have caim hoam confronted with cares & worries, but nevver onct, my friends, have I snapped at my wife. In the first place, Pad sed, friend wife dosent happen for to like to be snapped at, & in the second place I doant like to snap at her, & in the third place I wud be laid out coald in the first place.

In order that we may grow old, Pa sed, we must stay sweet, my frends. In order that a man & his wife may roam down the rose bordered lane of love, from the day thay wander to the day thay fold thare hands & say Goodby, a man & his wife shud keep thare composure, & shud utter no word or do no deed wich will git them in bad with each other. I have saw many strainge things in my time, Pad sed, & many brutal things, but nevver have I saw anything so brutal as the brutal sight of a brute beeing unkind to the dear littel girl wich has con-secrated her vary life to him.

Isent he dear? sed one of the ladies. How I wish I cud have a husband like that. It must be grand, the lady sed to Ma, to have a husband like yure husband. Oh, I doant know, sed Ma, sum days it is grander than other days. He is not always thus.

Then the Happy Hoam Society all went hoam, & pa took Ma & me to our hoam too. How did you like my speech, wife? sed Pa. How did you like the way I spoak of the deer littel wimmen wich is good enuff to marry us brutal men? I thought it was fine, sed Ma. I thought you were positively noabel wen you stood up thare in all the glorious strength of your manhood & stood up for us poor littel weak gurls. I need twenty dollars, by the way, sed Ma, befoar I fergit it. You see, dear, all of us week gurls is so dependent on you strong men. Ma got the twenty dollars. I think she is stronger than Pa.
